Coalition vs. Transrail

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The town is circling the wagons as it gets ready once again to battle the New England Transrail (NET) proposal for a reload facility to be built on contaminated soil at the Olin Chemical site at 51 Eames Street.

NET is seeking a federal exemption for the proposal through the Surface Transportation Board (STB). STB dismissed the original request for exemption in early May due to evolving conditions of the project.

While it voted unanimously to dismiss, the STB did not discuss or rule on the merits of the proposal. The petition was dismissed without prejudice, enabling NET to come back to the table for another try.

A big fish in a little pond

6-pounder lurks beneath the waves for this Saturday's Fishing Derby

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - What's the biggest fish ever pulled out of Silver Lake? It could be the six-pounder that David LaPusata pulled out at approximately 7:00 a.m. last Saturday.

"It's the biggest Largemouth I have ever seen come out of Silver Lake," said LaPusata. "I didn't have a scale with me to weigh it but I figured it to be every bit 6 pounds."

LaPusata didn't want this to be a case of "the one that got away," so he made sure to get photographic proof.

"The kids really went crazy when this thing came out of the water," LaPusata said.

West School still teaching

Students and town benefit from West School rehab

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Students are still obtaining an education at the West School 130 years after it was first built. These students, however, have traded in the old fashioned inkwells and blackboards, normally at home in the small single-classroom building, for state of the art construction tools and top-level construction tutelage.

It's a win-win situation.

High School students from Shawsheen Valley Technical High School are renovating and refurbishing an historical building for the Town of Wilmington while gaining practical hands-on training for their future careers in carpentry, plumbing, electrical, masonry, and HVAC.

Built in 1875, the red-shingled structure on Shawsheen Avenue directly across from Aldrich Street was the typical "little red schoolhouse" of its time, used as a school from 1875 through the 1940's. In the 1970's, the interior was renovated to serve as the school department's audio-visual center.

The building fell into disrepair over the last few decades, but through the efforts of the Wilmington Historic Commission, Selectman Frank West, State Representative James Miceli, and State Senator Bruce Tarr the school is once again being restored. Miceli and Tarr were able to

St. Dorothy's hits 50

Archbishop O'Malley to visit this weekend

By LARZ F. NEILSON

You could call St. Dorothy's Church a church of small miracles, due simply to its survival. The parish has survived 51 years, through an evolution of its core area. In 1954, Silver Lake was an area in which many homes were converted summer camps.

The area was in transition, having been a resort area during the early 20th Century. Today, the area is densely populated with year-round homes.

Those observations will seem moot on Sunday as Archbishop Sean O'Malley visits St. Dorothy's as the parish celebrates the close of its Silver Anniversary.

Local man provides a facelift to a "busy corner"

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - There have been significant changes taking place on the corner of Lowell Street and West Street and in the center of it all is Wilmington's own Derek Santini.

Some might say that he was in the right place at the right time, but the truth is that he embodies the old proverb of luck favoring the prepared. The "Sonny's" Mobil On-the-Run that seems to have popped up so suddenly has been three years in the making.

It's Your Money by Joyce Brisbois

ROLLOVERS

Leaving a job with money in the retirement plan? Rolling it over into an IRA is the smart way to go—so much that companies that require departing employees to cash out of plans with balances of $1,000 to $5,000 must now move the funds directly to an IRA.

A thousand here, a thousand there, may not seem much, but over the years—with the help of tax-deferred compounding—it can add up to a nice chunk of change. Money taken out as cash is not only taxed but, if employee is under 55, subject to a 10 percent penalty. Best bet is to move money in a direct trustee-to-trustee transfer.

Leave the money in an employer's plan? Fees may be high and investment choices limited. You're better off in an IRA. For ease in record-keeping, you can combine rollovers into one account.

Note: if your plan includes some company stock, a partial rollover may be better. Appreciated stock taken out of the plan is taxed only on its value when contributed to your account.

Planning to retire? Before you make financial changes, talk over your options with the professionals at

Cops see green... ...Vets see red

Every once in a while I run into someone that has an ax to grind against police.

Not me.

Some people think police are paid too much.

Not me.

It is my opinion that there is no such thing as a small town anymore. If small towns exist at all, Wilmington and Tewksbury are no longer members. Not when heroin busts become an everyday occurrence. Not when armed robberies and house breaks no longer shock and awe the general public.

Police officers risk their lives every single time they step out of the cruiser on a traffic stop. That may be cliché, but that does not make it any less true. You know a patrolman making a six-figure income? Good. I hope they all do. Those are the people I'm going to call when someone is breaking into my house - I want them to be paid well.

The Wilmington Police Department's Honor Guard did not march in the Memorial Day Parade last Sunday, I was disappointed to learn.

They didn't march because they were not going to be paid to march.

I was surprised to learn that they have been paid to march in the Memorial Day Parade in previous years. This year, however, municipal budgets all over the state are at their breaking points and there were no available funds to pay for the double-time rate.

The Wilmington Fire Department, incidentally, was presented with exactly the same scenario - no dough for marching in the Memorial Day Parade.

The Fire Department chose to march anyway. Good for them.

As a matter of fact, a whole bunch of people marched for free that day. Had the police been paid to march, they would have been the only ones to pull down a paycheck for it. Everyone else was there to honor every soldier that ever died to defend this country.

Kudos to Safety Officer Brian Moon and Police Lieutenant Christopher Neville. They both participated in the Memorial Day activities on a volunteer basis. It is too bad more of their brethren chose not to.

A veteran of the War on Terror, who came into the Town Crier to state his opinion on the matter, opined that the decision of the police not to march was a slap in the face to all veterans.

"A private in Iraq doesn't make as much in a month as these guys do in a week," he said.

He wasn't the only veteran to visit the Town Crier to voice such an opinion. A veteran of the Korean War held a similar grudge.

"I've marched in the Memorial Day Parades for at least 20 of the last 35 years and I've never been paid a penny," he said. "The Fire Department did a great job taking their place."

Change State Aid

Dear Editor,

The Massachusetts Alliance for Educational Equity seeks citizens from Wilmington to assist with long overdue changes in the distribution of State Aid. Wilmington does not receive similar amounts of Chapter 70 Aid as does its neighboring and most similar neighboring communities. A system of winners and losers has been in place since 1993.

Corrective legislation is in the Senate. A joint committee of Ways and Means has a study from the Department of Education. A Public Hearing will be held at the State House on June 2nd. Communities from the Rt 128 area are aligned with communities from the Cape, Central and Western MA to fix an annual shortfall of State Aid between $500 and $1,500 per pupil.

Land Swap for Butters Farm?

Dear Editor,

I am hopeful that the town will be successful in preserving the Butters Farmhouse - to do otherwise will result in the loss of a significant piece of local history.

Recently the Town of Burlington succeeded in preserving a farmhouse that dates back to 1770, relatively new compared to the Butters property, through a creative and innovative (and ultimately award winning) partnership.

The deal, known as the "land swap", involved the farmhouse, owned at the time by a local developer, another piece of land owned by another local developer and piece of land owned by the town. The town swapped its piece of land to one developer who in turn swapped his land to the other developer. The developer who owned the farmhouse then deeded the farmhouse to the town. In the end everyone claimed victory and the farmhouse remains standing.

I am not suggesting that Wilmington undertake the same "land swap" as Burlington, however, there are creative solutions that can be studied in an effort to keep the Butters Farmhouse in tact and allow future generations to learn from its presence.

I am hopeful a solution is reached in this important matter.

Kindest regards,

Enthusiastic support for Butters Farm

Dear Editor,

I grew up in and lived most of my life in Wilmington. When it comes to the issue of historic preservation, and the preservation of the Butters Farm House in particular, I enthusiastically support this worthwhile endeavor. As a society we seem to destroy so many historical links to our past and (in particular) a style of architecture that is no longer economically feasible to produce in our current times. I hope that Mr. Langone will also support this project.

Everything's A Story

by Andrea MacMullin

This past weekend, I again had the pleasure of attending two Memorial Day parades, Tewksbury and Wilmington. It has become a bit of a tradition, a family tradition that I doubt will end anytime soon.

As I sat on the curb, I began to see something that I hadn't noticed before. Although I saw the families lined up for a mile or more, awaiting the lines of fire trucks and marching bands, I realized what was really happening.

It became clear to me, that although we live in an age of instant gratification and the need for thrills, we all, even children, long for simple things.

What could be simpler than a parade? Simple as it may be, even old-fashioned, moms, dads, grandparents and excited children wait in anticipation, and watch in awe. Every time. It can be the same people, the same floats, the same songs year after year, but it still brings joy. It still brings happiness. It still creates a feeling. Every time.

Maybe it's the noble men and women who march, standing up for what they believe in. Maybe it's the young kids in the marching bands doing their best to play a song. Maybe it's seeing a son walk in his father's footsteps.

Whatever it is, it's a sentimental ritual, a rare one that has lasted through the years. Some of the first organized parades date back to over one hundred years ago. Not much has changed. The costumes or modes of transportation may have become more elaborate, but the spirit is still the same.

It is events like this that can make a person realize how little we are in this world, how big the world is, and what truly matters in our lives. It's not the "getting," it's not supplying our children with the every want of a new toy that comes along. It's not that we "need" every thing that we see.

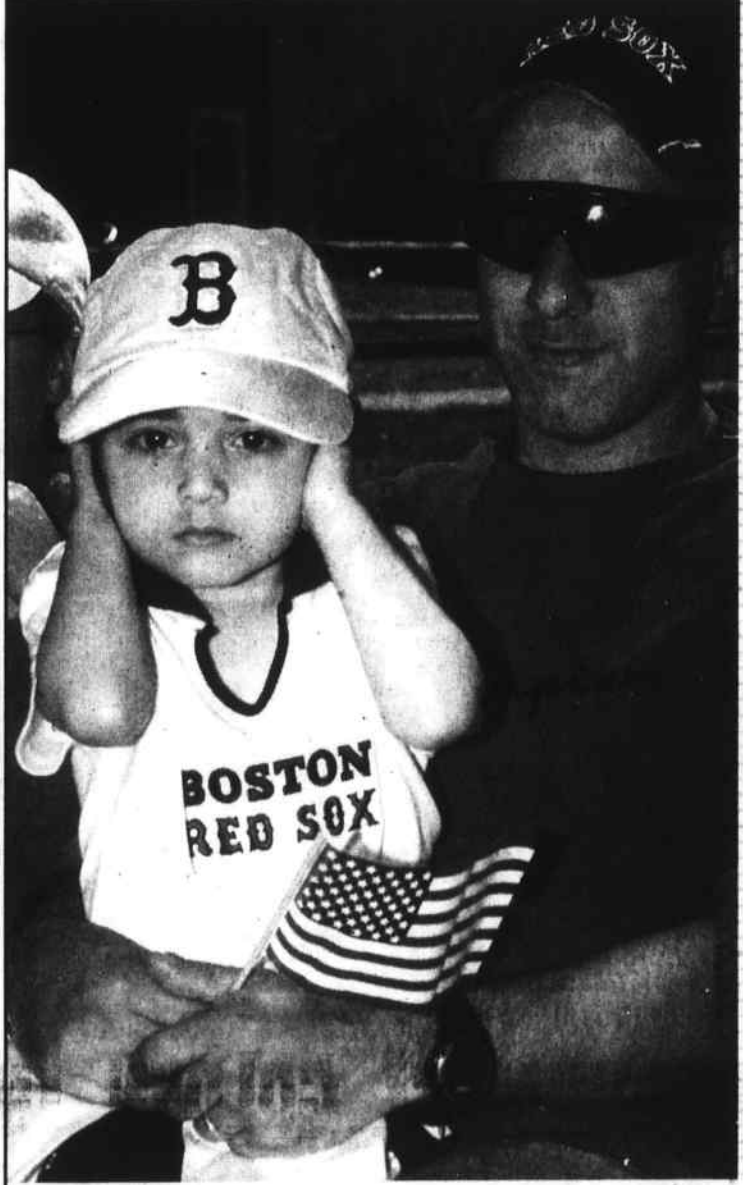

The children I saw yesterday were thrilled to get the small pieces of candy that were thrown to them, some even sharing with others that missed out. The children I saw were laughing more at the clown on stilts, than at a favorite TV program.

I saw families who came early, to mark their spot, making sure they had a perfect view. I saw parents taking the time out of their otherwise busy lives, ensuring their children wouldn't miss it. I saw people stand for the veterans, and place their hand on their heart to the American Flag.

As the parade ended and the people dispersed, I wondered and hoped, that everyone took with them, the reason for which they came. Although most will again resume with their every day lives, hopefully some will remember why they came. Because, for a short time, it was all very simple.

Letters to the Editor

An opportunity to preserve

Dear Editor,

Once again, Wilmington and its residents are faced with an opportunity to preserve its legacy. The Butters Farm salt-box house was built in 1682, one of the first settlements in this town that set the stage for Wilmington's prosperous rural and, much later, suburban lifestyle. The farmhouse, as one of the oldest homes in Wilmington and in America, is a monument to Wilmington's foundation. William Butters and his family were among the first settlers to establish a home and successful life here. They worked the land, established a neighborhood and a school, contributed to town government, served as soldiers in wars, and encouraged others to make Wilmington their home. In their time, they lived the American dream (even before America was America!). This community should support the preservation of the Butters Farm house because it is a tangible representation and tribute to our heritage.

The current debate over the Butters Farm considers whether to demolish the home for aesthetic and economic reasons or preserve it as a local historical resource. Each side of the debate considers the same bottom line - the profit. Demolition would permanently remove a daily reminder of our heritage, and profit the landowner. Preservation would sustain Wilmington's heritage, and profit the community as a whole. The land around which the house sits will be developed, regardless of whether the historical house stays or goes. But there is little profit to the community if the land is developed without preserving the historical home. With the historical home left intact, the community profits from having an historical resource that can be utilized as an educational, preservation, and conservation tool and example. There is also an opportunity to be creative and innovative with the Town's conservation, zoning, and subdivision plans to develop the land and preserve the house, thereby maximizing profits for the developer and the community.

Wilmington and its residents can set a precedent with this opportunity. Although the Historical Commission was discouraged by the Bylaw Committee in 2004 to pursue acceptance of a Demolition Delay Bylaw at the annual Town Meeting, it did succeed in distributing a Preservation Plan Survey and learned that the community has a strong interest in town-wide preservation measures. The Commission and the Master Plan Committee consider the Community Preservation Act a feasible conservation and preservation tool. It is time to take a more aggressive role to incorporate these measures in Wilmington's planning and development processes. It is time for residents, developers, and the Town's committees, boards, and commissions to cooperate and make the goals of preservation, education, and conservation a reality, and no longer just a concept to discuss at meetings.

Shawsheen Tech National Honor Society

BILLERICA - Ten Shawsheen Tech students were recently honored as new members of the National Honor Society at a ceremony in the school's auditorium.

Attorney Bob Peterson, a current member of the Shawsheen Tech School Committee from Wilmington, was the keynote speaker at the event.

"It's a great group," said Kristin Sciacca, the NHS advisor at Shawsheen. "These students have worked long and hard in order to attain this recognition."

Three seniors were recognized including Lisa Gustafson, a Commercial Art and Design student from Wilmington.

Seven juniors were also honored including Ashley Broussard, a Health Technology student from Wilmington, Ashley Long, a Tewksbury resident working in Commercial Art and Design, and Carrie McConnell of Wilmington, a student in the

According to Sciacca, McConnell is the top-ranked student in Shawsheen's junior class.

Fifteen current members of the honor society were also recognized and include Alyssa Carrigan of Tewksbury, Laura Contardo of Tewksbury, David DeAngelis of Tewksbury, Stephanie Frey of Tewksbury, Kimberly Haley of Tewksbury, Sheri Hampshire of Wilmington, Ryan Maguire of Wilmington, and Ashley Robar of Wilmington.

275th Update

Athletes and athletic supporters needed!

Wilmington's 275th Anniversary Committee is now registering competitors for the upcoming Committee-sponsored athletic events to be held during July and August.

Events will include bocce, croquet, horseshoes, hospital bed race, relay race, softball, triathlon, and volleyball.

Categories for competitions will include Clan vs. Clan, Industry vs. Industry, and Open Group.

Contact Jack Cushing at 978-658-2170 or leave information with the Recreation Department at Town Hall before June 16th to sign up.

The Frank Kelley (that's Mr. Kelley to you) Roast has been scheduled!

Write the date down! - August 5, 2005 at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Tickets will soon be available through the Town Crier office.

Speakers wanted

Remember when he kept the window open, even during the frigid months of winter?

Remember the futile attempts to catch a couple of quick Z's, just to be shocked awake by flying chalk-board erasers?

Remember the corny jokes?

Have you been looking for revenge?

Students and athletes of Mr. Frank Kelley assemble! At long last, the worm turns. Finally you will have a chance to get even.

By the way - don't tell Mr. Kelley that he is being roasted - We told him it is an indoor track meet.

Wilmington Garden Club news

The Wilmington Garden Club would like to thank everyone that came out and supported their annual plant sale.

The club is now accepting applications for membership for 2005-2006. Applications are available on the Community Bulletin Board located at the Wilmington Memorial Library and also at the Wilmington Town Hall. Meetings are held at the 4th of July Headquarters in Wilmington on the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. from Sept. - June.

Meeting topics include planting and maintaining perennial gardens, holiday arrangements, landscaping with bulbs, container gardening and more. The club also hosts floral design classes that offer great tips and techniques used to produce beautiful arrangements.

The club supports many community projects including the decoration and maintenance of the various traffic island barrels and troughs located throughout town, youth programs and garden therapy at local nursing homes just to name a few.

Are you looking for something different to do this summer? The Wilmington Garden Club offers passes to the The Garden in The Woods in No. Framingham, MA. Passes are available at the Wilmington Memorial Library. For a complete list of summer programs at the The Garden in The Woods visit www.gardeninthewoods.com <<http://www.gardeninthewoods.com>>.

Kevin Cairra Testimonial Dinner

Kevin A. Cairra, a Wilmington resident and State President of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Order Sons of Italy in America, was honored at a Testimonial dinner at the Sheraton Colonial Hotel in Wakefield on May 14, 2005. Among the 400 people in attendance were members of President Cairra's family, over 50 members of the Wilmington Sons of Italy Lodge, state officials, lodge officers and members from across the country, and representatives from the charitable organizations that the Sons of Italy support.

Immediate Past President of the Wilmington Lodge, Jerry Pupa, served as Honorary Chairman for the Testimonial and welcomed all in attendance. The Treasurer and General Receiver of the Commonwealth, the Honorable Timothy Cahill, recognized Kevin for his success in the workplace as a Senior Retirement Counselor for the State Board of Retirement under the auspices of the State Treasury. The Consul General of Italy was represented and the National President of the Order Sons of Italy in America (OSIA), Joseph Sciamé, recognized Kevin as a leader and as a role model to emulate. Albert DeNapoli, OSIA National Chairman of Social Justice, lauded President Cairra for his work traveling across the state advancing a positive image of Italian-Americans. Lisa Hellman from the Alzheimer's Association recognized the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts' work in raising 1.3 million dollars to fund research to eradicate the disease. Rudolfo Visconti from the Cooley's Anemia Foundation presented President Cairra with a decorative hourglass, representing the extra time afforded to those afflicted with this blood disorder.

der, due to the Order's 12 million dollars in contributions. Representatives from Italian-American organizations in attendance included members of the Don Orione Home, Casa Monte Casino, Italian American Heritage Month Committee, Pirandello Lyceum, and the Dante Alighieri Society, among others.

The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, of which Kevin Cairra is President, boasts membership in excess of 11,000 and also includes lodges in New Hampshire, Maine, and Vermont. The Sons of Italy is the largest and oldest Italian-American organization in the country. This year the Grand of Massachusetts celebrates its 91st year and nationally, OSIA is celebrating its 100th anniversary. This fraternal organization has given countless hours and millions of dollars on behalf of charitable, educational, social, and cultural endeavors. Through their Social Justice Commission, they are committed as an organization to fight injustice and discrimination. The Order has given hundreds of thousands of dollars in scholarship aid to deserving students each year. Communities from across this state have benefited from the generosity of the Massachusetts Chapter of the Order Sons of Italy in America under the leadership of State President Kevin A. Cairra and former state presidents, including Kevin's father, the late Aldo A. Cairra.

To find out more about the Order Sons of Italy in America, visit their Massachusetts website at www.osiama.org. Area residents are invited to join the Wilmington Lodge by contacting Immediate Past President Jerry Pupa at 978-658-3069 or current President Aldo Cairra, Jr. at 978-657-8572.

Wine Tasting on June 16

On Thursday, June 16, 2005, the Wilmington 275th Anniversary Committee is hosting a Wine Tasting from 7:00 to 9:30 P.M. The Wine Tasting will be held at the Casa di Fior, 128 West Street, Wilmington. A large variety of both imported and domestic wines will be offered along with vegetable erudite, cheese and crackers and hors d'oeuvres. Tickets must be purchased in advance at a cost of $20 per person and are available at either the Recreation Department, Wilmington Town Hall or Wilmington Town Crier, 104 Lowell Street, 1-978-658-2346. For your convenience, tickets may be purchased via Visa or Master Card at the Wilmington Town Crier. Casual attire is requested. Proceeds from the Wine Tasting will be used to defray the cost of the 275th Anniversary Parade to be held on Sunday, September 18, 2005 at 2:00 P.M. Please visit <http://www.wilmington275th.com> for a complete list of events.

On September 25, 1730, the request of a group of like-minded citizens from areas within Reading, Woburn and Billerica to form the new township of Wilmington was granted by His Majesty's Royal Governor.

Throughout this year, to commemorate the 275th Anniversary of Wilmington, events as diverse as an Anniversary Ball, Breakfast with Santa, Sock Hop, Strings Attached concert, Automobile Rally, Wine Tasting, numerous raffles, Tee Shirt sales, and a roast of the beloved Mr. Frank Kelly will have been held. Nearing the conclusion of the of Wilmington's year-long anniversary celebration, a giant parade will be held on Sunday, September 18, 2005. The first units will step off at 2:00 p.m. following a 2 mile route from Wilmington Center along Church Street/Middlesex Avenue (Route 62), ending in North Wilmington at Waltham Street.

The parade will feature more than 10 marching bands including the U-Mass Lowell marching band, the American Legion Band of Waltham, the Middlesex County Volunteers and some of the areas outstanding high school bands such as North Andover's Scarlet Knights, Andover High School and of course our own Wilmington Wildcat Marching Band. Numerous floats from both industry and community groups, marchers from the Aleppo Temple Shrine, military units, and many antique automobiles will also be in the line of march. Fire engines from Wilmington and surrounding towns will also participate.

The parade will be the final event planned prior to the colossal Birthday Party, featuring a concert by the Air Force Band, a half marathon road race and a huge birthday cake, planned for Sunday, September 25 on the Wilmington Common.

For a complete listing of 275th Anniversary events please visit our website at <http://www.wilmington275th.com>. Hope to see you at the parade or many of our events!

Kiwanis Club of Wilmington to sponsor Bicycle Rodeo June 11

Each year approximately 400 children under 15 years old are killed in bicycle crashes. Thousands more are treated in emergency rooms for bicycle related injuries. These children are among the more than 700 people and 53,000 pedal cyclists injured in traffic crashes. While bicycle helmets have been shown to reduce the risk of head injury by 85%, only 5% of all children cyclists (and a lower percentage of adult cyclists) nationwide use bicycle helmets. Many children and their parents are unaware of these statistics and the basic techniques for staying safe while riding a bicycle.

In response to these startling facts, the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington is sponsoring a Bicycle Rodeo at the Swain School on Saturday, June 11th from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. This Bicycle Rodeo is part of the New England-wide Kiwanis Family Safety Day.

The Kiwanis Club of Wilmington is committed to preventing accidental injury in children and will be offering approved bicycle helmets at the rodeo for $12.00, as well as running several bicycle stations where riders can learn bicycle safety skills and practice them in a safe setting.

This Bicycle Rodeo is being put on by the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington with the cooperation of the Wilmington Police Department and Wilmington Firefighters Local 1370. In addition, the Cycle Loft of Burlington will be there to perform safety checks of bicycles at no charge.

Adults can also have their bicycles safety checked and, if they want, go through the rodeo course.

All children and their parents are invited to participate in this worthwhile event and help reduce the number of bicycle related injuries.

When riding a bicycle, keep the following in mind:

- Learn the rules of the road and obey all traffic laws.

- Ride on the right side of the road with traffic, not against it.

- Use appropriate hand signals to indicate your intentions.

- Observe all traffic signals, including stopping at all stop signs and stoplights.

- Stop and look all ways before entering a street.

- Ride single-file when riding with others.

- Walk your bike across busy roads and intersections.

All participants in the rodeo will be given handouts detailing these important facts.

Sharing the road with motor vehicles has many inherent hazards and because of these, bicyclists need to establish a serious attitude toward riding their bikes and observe the following safety tips.

- Wear a bicycle helmet correctly. The helmet fitters at the Bicycle Rodeo will show you how to do this. Also there will be handouts showing proper fitting of helmets. The following points should be followed.

- A bicycle helmet should fit comfortably and snugly, but not too tightly.

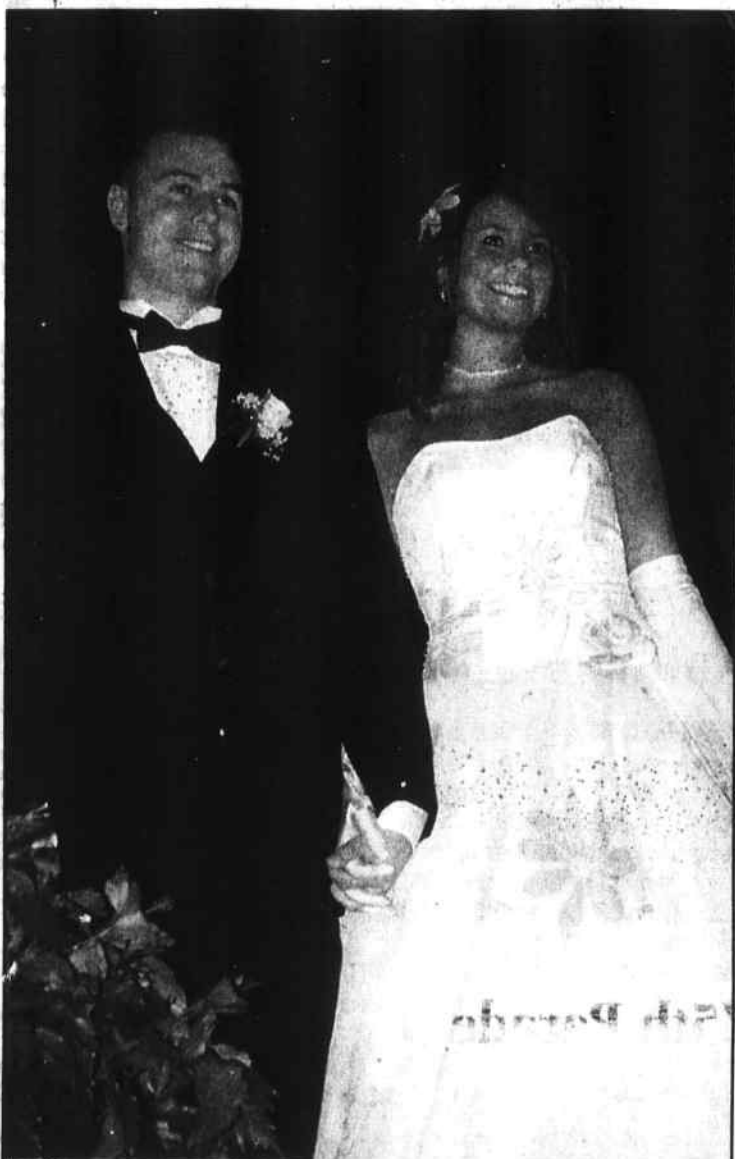

- It should sit in a level position on top of your head.

- It should not rock forward and back or from side to side.

- The helmet straps should always be buckled. It can't protect you if it flies off during a crash.

The Kiwanis Club of Wilmington invites any man or woman residing or working in the town of Wilmington or surrounding towns to join them at their meetings and in their service projects. They meet the first and third Mondays of each month. The club had been meeting at Rocco's and will again be meeting there once renovations are complete. Right now they are meeting on their scheduled nights but sites are announced prior to the meetings. Call 978-658-5568 for meeting sites and directions.

June 6th the meeting will be at the Buzzell Senior Center as the club will be serving the annual Senior Citizen cookout.

Tewksbury Post Office recognizes ultimate driving record

TEWKSBURY - Allan G. Mahoney is a man of many miles - safe miles at that.

Mahoney is a city letter carrier in Tewksbury Post Office and was recognized recently by postal officials for his safe driving record—a slate that earned him membership in the National Safety Council's Million Mile Club.

In recognition of his achievement, Mahoney was presented with a plaque "for attaining one million miles or 30 years of safe driving without a preventable incident."

Mahoney has a total of 39 years of driving safely for the U.S. government, including 36 as a letter carrier in Tewksbury Post Office and three while serving in the U.S. Army.

Massachusetts Postal District Safety Donna Gill commended him for his "outstanding driving performance. Your accomplishment over the years of safe driving is no small feat," she said while presenting him with a plaque from the National Safety Council.

Postmaster Joanna M. Louf also lauded Mahoney for his enviable safety record. "Good safety performance is a daily attitude that you have made a part of your dedicated service to the Tewksbury Post Office. Thank you," she said. Mahoney attributed his success as a professional driver for the Postal Service to "courtesy" and "defensive driving." He said he is always prepared for the other driver to do the unexpected and generally gives other drivers the right of way.

According to the accompanying certificate, enrollment in the Million Mile Club "is the highest award for professional safe driving performance."

Tewksbury Letter Carrier, Allan Mahoney, has accumulated one-million miles without a single preventable accident.

Barbara Conroy

Emmy Award winning Reporter/Producer; Family in Wilmington

NEW YORK, NY - Barbara Conroy, 44, Emmy Award winning Reporter/Producer passed away suddenly in New York City, New York on Thursday, May 26th. She was forty-four years of age.

Born in Woburn, Massachusetts, she was the daughter of Jean F. (Coady) Sevigny and the late Joseph P. Conroy. She was a 1978 graduate of Woburn High School and a graduate of Emerson College.

Barbara had a successful news career, having won numerous awards including three Emmys for work as a Producer and Reporter in both domestic and foreign assignments. Her assignments included the U.S. War on terrorism and Afghanistan during the 1980's and 1990's, the White House, Capitol Hill, the Bosnian and Gulf Wars, the collapse of the Soviet Union, Eastern European Revolutions and stories from most U.S. States.

Barbara's career included working as a National News Coordinator with WBZ-TV until 1986, during which she covered the Challenger Space Shuttle tragedy. She then worked for NBC in their Washington, D.C. office. As a Chief Producer she covered such stories as the fall of the Berlin Wall and the German Reunification, Revolutions in Romania, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, the U.S. Bombing of Libya, the Summer Olympics in Korea, the Beirut Hostage release, Iran-Contra, and British Royal Weddings to name a few.

She then took a job with NBC News as a Prime-Time Producer for "Dateline" and "Real Life with Jane Pauley." While working for NBC News she was a Gulf War Correspondent and Producer covering Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Iraq. She was the only Western journalist to obtain unlimited access throughout Iraq after the War. While covering the story in Iraq she smuggled out a compiled videotape documenting the Iraqi deployment of Russian-made weapons and their deplorable treatment of starving children.

She continued to cover world events with Inside Edition, CBS News and ABC News. Her journalistic career as well as her stories became more focused on the impact of world events on children and the positive contributions of a number of special causes in which she was actively involved. She was active in promoting the British Royal Family's Prince Philips' Fellowship Awards that highlights and praises extraordinary accomplishments of individuals that have contributed to mankind. Awardees have included Nelson Mandela and Bill Gates. Another favorite charity included "Friends of Africa" which funds young Africans to train them in basic entrepreneurial skills that would benefit their communities.

Barbara will most be remembered for her touching stories of the impact of War on children. The impact of the Gulf War, Bosnia and Sarajevo were brought to all of us in her stories. Of note was the film of a Sarajevo Orphanage which prompted Pop Star Phoebe Snow to pen the song "Lily's in the Field." Several musicians then recorded the song as a fundraiser for the children. This effort raised $5 million dollars for the orphans.

Barbara is predeceased by her father, Joseph P. Conroy and brother, Paul A. Sevigny.

Surviving are her parents, Jean and Paul Sevigny of Kittery Point, Maine and Hyannis, Mass., her brothers, Brian Conroy and his wife Mary of Kittery Point, ME, Mark Conroy and his wife Linda of Londonderry, NH, her sisters, Maureen Demango and her husband Sam of Wilmington, and Jacqueline Aiesi and her husband Frank of Wilmington. She is also survived by her nieces and nephews: Christyne, David and Brendan Demango; Joseph, Patrick and Kathleen Conroy; Kyle, Jenna and Lindsay Conroy; and Melissa and Austin Aiesi.

The funeral will be held from the Lynch-Cantillon Funeral Home, 263 Main Street, Woburn, on Thursday, June 2nd, at 9:45 a.m., followed by a funeral mass in St. Barbara's Church, 138 Cambridge Road, Woburn, at 10:30. Interment will take place in Wildwood Cemetery in Wilmington.

Calling hours at the funeral home will be on Wednesday from 4 to 8 p.m.

Donations may be made in Barbara's memory to Holy Family Relief Services Inc., 2915 Lea Street, Gainesville, GA 30504.

Joseph E. "Red" Hamilton

WWII Army Veteran of India Burma Campaign

TEWKSBURY - Joseph E. "Red" Hamilton, age 81, a resident of Tewksbury for five decades, died Monday morning, May 30, 2005, at Saints Memorial Medical Center in Lowell, after a brief period of declining health. He was the husband of Hedwige T. (Brennick) Hamilton, with whom he would have celebrated a 54th wedding anniversary on Thursday.

He was born in Cambridge, on February 8, 1924, a son of the late Joseph and Mary (McGovern) Hamilton. He was raised in Cambridge, but had lived in Tewksbury since 1956.

During WWII, he served in the India-Burma Campaign.

He worked as a driver for the Penn Oil Company and Sellar's Oil Company.

Mr. Hamilton was a communicant of St. William's Church, a former member of the St. William's Men's Club, and a former member of the Fr. Coppin's Council, Knights of Columbus, Council 4336 in Tewksbury.

More recently, he was a member of the Tewksbury Golden Age Club, and in earlier years, was a Tewksbury Youth Baseball Coach.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter and son-in-law, Barbara M. Cavanaugh and her husband Robert, of Tewksbury; a brother and sister-in-law, James and Lois Hamilton of FL.

He was also brother-in-law of the late William Brennick, and Mary Salerno.

His funeral will be held Thursday, at 9:00 a.m. from the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main Sts. (Rte 38) Tewksbury Center, phone (800 or 978) 851 2550. Funeral Mass Thursday, June 2, at 10:00 a.m. in St. William's Church, 1351 Main St. (Rte. 38) Tewksbury. Visiting hours Wednesday 4 to 7 p.m. in the funeral home. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery, No. Tewksbury. In lieu of flowers, memorials to Oblate Father's Infirmary Fund, P.O. Box 419, Tewksbury, MA 01876 will be appreciated. tewksburyfuneralhome.com

The Place To Be

Tewksbury Public Library is the Place To Be for Teens this Summer

Despite the weather outside, summer vacation and its days of fun, sunshine, and required school reading are fast approaching. For students and parents who are unsure where to begin, the Tewksbury Public Library can help. We can provide reading lists, necessary books, and even interesting programs exclusively for teens.

Forgotten the list or need an extra report sheet? The main desks have folders containing the master lists and their accompanying forms. The folders are only for use in the library, but photocopying is available for fifteen cents per page. The Internet savvy will find a link to the schools' summer reading webpage included in the Teen section of our website, www.tewksburypl.org. Printouts may be made from the library's computers or at home. As for the books themselves, the library owns several copies of each title on the public school reading lists. All books can be checked out for three weeks and renewed (in person, by phone, or online) for another three weeks if no one else is waiting for them.

In keeping with the theme of vacation and travel, Tewksbury Public Library has also put together the following programs for teens to experience a broader horizon this summer. All events are free, open to teens aged twelve and up, but do require either registration or tickets. See each individual description for specific details. Going places @ your library*, the 2005 Statewide Summer Library Adventure, is sponsored by your local library, the Massachusetts Regional Library Systems, and the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners.

Travel Pack Books Create books about a real or imaginary journey that flip over, pop up and fold out into interesting shapes. Artist Jeannie Hunt will teach you the 3-hole pamphlet stitch and the rubber band binding to make a mini travel journal. Fill the pages with writings and drawings of a place you have visited or always dreamed of going. Draw a personal map and turn it into an "explosion" book using the special map-fold. Then learn how to make an origami diamond pouch with pockets to hold your books.

Monday, June 27, 1-3 P.M. Limited to 20 teens. Sign-up starts June 1.

Anime 101

Explore the world of Japanese animation with Springfield librarian and anime expert Sarah Hodge-Wetherbe. This program covers the history of anime from its birth in Japan to its introduction here in the USA. Ms. Hodge-Wetherbe will explain vocabulary, different types of anime, and American fan culture. Visual aids and DVD clips are included to help illustrate this unique film style that is becoming increasingly popular around the world. Time for a Q&A session is included after the talk.

Monday, July 11, 6-7:30 P.M. Limited to 100. Free tickets will be available at the Reference Desk starting June 27.

Around the World with ARTZZONE

The ARTZZONE Craft Caravan will take you on a whirlwind tour of the world, traveling between the art, culture, and geography of three different countries. Map each destination on a world map, learn about its culture, and make a special craft unique to the country. Before getting started on the world tour, everyone will paint and decorate their mode of transportation for this exciting trip - a hot air balloon. Then it's off to create woven pots of Mexico, a Vejigante mask from the West Indies, and Japanese Temari balls.

Tuesday, July 26, 3-5 P.M. Limited to 20 teens. Sign-up starts July 1.

For more details, visit Tewksbury Public Library or call the Reference Desk at 978-640-4490, ext. 207. For more information about programs and services for teens, visit us online at www.tewksburypl.org/teen/teen.htm.

and several handicap accessible ramps. They have also refurbished the plumbing and heating.

"The youngsters are doing a fantastic job," Lessard said. "I can't say enough about them." Town Manager Michael Caira contacted Charles Lyons, pany them to the job site, students began demolition activities last fall.

"We have taken it down to the studs; structural weaknesses have been repaired; and we now have reinforced girders and ceilings have been replaced," Shawsheen Project Manager Gary Baker said.

Senator Bruce Tarr, and selectman Frank West.

Harris hopes to see the building used for many years to come by the town and that whatever its use, it will accommodate the general public, since the building will house a pictorial of the history of Wilmington's school system.

"Not only are we excited about preserving this building, but also that we are becoming involved in the educational process of young men and women at Shawsheen," Harris said. "I've spoken to the kids several times and you can tell that they're excited about the project. They are doing a wonderful job," she said.

Harris intends to hold a grand reopening reception upon the building's completion. The Historical Commission, she added, "has a deep interest in making this a viable asset for the community."

The historical perspective also has significance to Shawsheen Tech.

"The fact that it is a historical project means that we could bring it into our social studies classes through an integrated activity," Lavoie said. "In addition, the project can be part of the related theory class we have for each technical program. For example, we could discuss the history of construction and design, using this as a period example."

Mr. Baker noted that historic integrity will be honored as the students proceed with construction. "We have been looking at old pictures of the school and we will keep as close to the original as possible," he said.

Shawsheen students also learn something about citizenship as they work and improve property within the district communities through this and other projects. "We also look at the project through the connection it gives us to the community," said Mr. Lavoie. "Students learn that it is good to participate in your community."

Local man provides a facelift to a "busy corner"

Santini grew up in Wilmington and attended public schools through junior high. He received a high school education at St. John's Preparatory School and then a degree in finance from Babson College.

Following his 1999 Babson graduation, he spent some time working for Fidelity and for Eaton Vance before taking over the residential cleaning business begun by his mother. Within no time he had tripled the sales volume and moved the operation out of his mother's house and into a commercial space on Andover Street.

Meanwhile, Santini began to ask questions about Mobil dealerships. A friend of the family owned several Mobil locations in the general area.

"I saw the way that he lived and asked him what it was like to be a dealer for Mobil," Santini said. "I also asked him to let me know if he was to ever hear about a location going up for sale."

Not long after that conversation, Santini's friend informed him that the Forrest Mobil in Wilmington was to be sold. Santini approached John Forrest, whom he had known for many years, and asked if he was looking to sell the business. Forrest was indeed looking to get out of the business after a long and full career. Sure, he would be willing to sell to Santini.

Nothing in life, however, is quite that simple.

Forrest owned the Mobil franchise, but he didn't own the land. The land was owned by John Elia. Before any deal could go through, Santini would have to get an assurance from Elia that he would be willing to renew a long-term lease of the property for Mobil.

The two met, but no, Elia was not willing to enter into another lease permitting Mobil to utilize the property.

He would, however, be willing to sell the property to Santini outright.

For more than half a century, people of all walks of life have been asking the Elia family if they would be interested in selling that property. After all of those inquiries, the sale was finally brokered at a little table in the Stop & Go sub shop on Middlesex Avenue.

John Elia, Sr. first opened "Elia's Busy Corner" at the intersection of Lowell Street and West Street more than 70 years ago. The Elia family resided for many years right around the corner from that store on West Street. The genesis of Wilmington's Ski Haus, incidentally, began with a purchase made by John Jr. of roughly 20 pairs of skis from a distributor. They sold that batch of skis out of Elia's Country Store and the rest is history.

With a verbal agreement from Elia, Santini took the ball and ran. He spent the next couple of years getting everything on track, from arranging for financing to working with the town on engineering, planning, and zoning issues. He volunteered a one hundred foot strip of frontage abutting West Street to the town for a left-hand turn lane, which has dramatically decreased traffic back up from that direction.

Some were concerned that the expansion of the business would additionally burden the already beleaguered intersection, but if anything, the one stop center may have lessened the load.

"People who want gas and a coffee don't have to go through the intersection and farther into town to get it," Santini points out.

Santini's Grand Opening is scheduled for this Saturday at noon, but his business is already booming.

"We're very busy," Santini said. "Busier than I expected." Santini couldn't be happier. His commute isn't too bad either. He bought the house he grew up in on Kenwood Avenue several years ago and is now raising his own family there. His wife, Julie (Gillis) Santini, is also a Wilmington native and they've got two sons - Michael, age 4, and Ryan, age 1.

Shawsheen Valley Tech Superintendent-Director, last spring to assess the feasibility of the technical school undertaking such a project.

"It is typical for outside projects to come to us this way," said John Lavoie, Shawsheen's Director of Technical Programs.

Lavoie evaluated the project to determine how appropriately it would fit into the school curriculum. With his recommendation, the superintendent and the School Committee gave it their approval.

"This is a good, solid, educational program for us," Lavoie concluded.

Under the tutelage of experienced instructors who accom-

Lessard is hoping to see the project completed by August 1. Several organizations have indicated interest in using the building, but nothing has yet been determined.

In 1990, it was named to the National Register of Historic Places and represents a piece of Wilmington history. The Wilmington Historical Commission is especially gratified that the school will be completed before the town's 275th Anniversary.

"We're so excited that the project is underway," said Carolyn Harris of the Wilmington Historical Commission. "It has been a long process," she added, noting in particular the efforts of Rep. James Miceli,

St. Dorothy's hits 50

Church was created by Archbishop (later Cardinal) Richard Cushing on June 6, 1954. Father Joseph Leahy was appointed pastor. He was also appointed as assistant at St. Thomas Church, allowing him to perform marriages there. He took up temporary residence at the St. Thomas Rectory.

At the same time, Fr. Edmund Croke was appointed pastor of St. Thomas Church, and Fr. Albert Shea was transferred to St. James Church in Boston. Fr. Shea, who had been pastor of St. Thomas since 1950, was later elevated to Monsignor.

Wilmington at the time had a population of about 10,000, roughly 50 percent of which was Catholic. The old St. Thomas Church, located on the site of the Wilmington Memorial Library, was overcrowded.

St. Dorothy's Parish was given geographic perimeters, roughly defining its area as Silver Lake and South Tewksbury. There were two centers of parish activity, St. Mary's on Vernon Street, and the Silver Lake Betterment Hall, on Main Street at the corner of Williams Avenue. With three masses in one hall and two in the other, Father Leahy was a busy man every Sunday morning.

In 1954, the Barry family sold their 13-acre property to the Archdiocese of Boston for $25,000. It was the former Thompson's Grove property, at the corner of Main and Harnden streets in Wilmington. Residents today would recognize the Barry name in an oil business, started many years later by Joe Barry.

Claude and Florence Thompson had run an amusement area on the corner for many years. Thompson's Grove was known as a wonderful picnic park and dance hall. The property included a beautiful home on Harnden Street which was converted into the rectory.

The first Catholic Mass was celebrated on the property on Christmas Eve, 1955, in the building known as the "White Hall."

The parish had a site, but it still had no church. Parishioners set to and began raising money. On Nov. 14, 1958, Fr. Leahy notified the Chancellor of the Archdiocese that sufficient funds had been raised to warrant the building of the new church. Ground was broken on April 12, 1959. The construction costs for the new church were $280,930.

Richard Cardinal Cushing came to Wilmington on June 4, 1960 to dedicate the new church with a High Mass. The church was named for St. Dorothy, a martyr who was executed in the Fourth Century A.D. after refusing to deny her faith. The stained glass windows in the church were executed in Holland, with the centerpiece window depicting St. Dorothy, with apples and roses, depicting the story of her martyrdom.

Legend has it that, then Senator, John F. Kennedy attended Mass at St. Dorothy's with his friend and future aide, David Powers. Powers wife was Josephine Lynch, sister of Chief of Police Paul J. Lynch. Kennedy made a contribution to the church to pay the balance on the St. Dorothy window.

In all, 88 families donated money to pay for the St. Dorothy's window.

The church has undergone two physical alterations since then. In 1966, the marble altar was moved to allow the celebration of Mass facing the people.

And two years ago, major renovations were undertaken, including a glass entrance area, new heating, air-conditioning, electrical and sound systems, including lighting of the church tower. Handicapped restrooms were installed, as well as a wheelchair ramp. A baptismal pool and fountain were installed, along with a new organ and a grand piano. The renovations entailed the removal of the choir loft and reduction of the seating capacity to 400.

The church is now planning a new parish center, to be built to the right of the church, said Father Kevin Horrigan, who has been pastor since September 2000. This project will be financed by the sale of some vacant land, at the southerly end of the property, facing Main Street.

On Saturday night, the church will hold a gala dinner dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

On Sunday, St. Dorothy's Church will welcome Archbishop O'Malley for a celebration Mass, followed by a gala reception.

The church held a memorial Mass on Sunday, May 15, dedicated to the deceased priests who have served the parish, including Fr. Joseph Leahy, Fr. David Tyrell, Fr. Robert Gosselin, Fr. Kevin McAndrews, Fr. Rickard O'Donovan, Fr. William Currier and Fr. George Farrell.

On May 29, families and friends from the church visited Silver Lake, where Fr. Horrigan blessed the waters of the lake and offered prayers for the deceased members of the Silver Lake community.

He and his sons have been fishing at Silver Lake for the past three years and they can't get enough of the new fishing pier.

"We followed the progress on the building of the dock very closely," said LaPusata. "Access for fishing is much easier now and the dock provides great structure for the bass and other fish to congregate. It really was a great improvement."

LaPusata selflessly tossed the gilled-one back into the drink, but that fish may end up seeing the light of day again very soon. The annual Recreation Department sponsored Silver Lake Fishing Derby is scheduled for this Saturday.

A hundred or so anglers generally show up for the Fishing Derby, which will begin sharply at 9:00 a.m. Registration at the Bath House begins at 8:30 a.m. This year, the derby will be limited to shore fishing only - no boats. As always, no fishing licenses are required during the Fishing Derby.

According to Recreation Director Deborah Cipriani, the winning fish generally weighs between 3.5 to 4 pounds.

"I sure hope someone catches that six-pound fish again this Saturday," Cipriani said.

A word of advice: LaPusata caught the monster-fish from the new fishing pier using a live shiner.

Though a dedication ceremony has not yet been scheduled, the new fishing pier is to be named in honor of Wilmington's beloved Rocco DePasquale.

The lake, which is stocked every year, is used by residents and out-of-towners alike all year long and was a favorite spot of, lifetime Wilmington resident, Rocco DePasquale.

Rocco's many contributions to the town included serving for many years as a selectman and even a bid for a seat in the House of Representatives. He was Wilmington's original Good Guy. The award was, in fact created as way to publicly recognize the many great things he had done for the town of Wilmington.

Later in life, Rocco experienced failing health and lost one of his legs. He always maintained his love of fishing and passed that love onto his children.

"He taught me how to fish," his son Matt DePasquale said. "Now I take my nieces fishing and tell them stories of how my father would close the restaurant to find accessible spots to fish from."

David LaPusata pulled this monster large mouthed bass in Silver Lake. Although the fish is definitely mountable, and certainly a prize to keep, he released the fish back to Silver Lake, for some other lucky angler to get the thrill of a lifetime.

rant late at night and then come wake me up to go fishing with him."

As Rocco's health suffered, it became more difficult for him

"He fished all his life," Matt said. "We used to take rides all over the place to find fishing spots that he could get to."

Rocco wanted to see a handicap accessible pier go into Silver Lake so that everyone would be able to enjoy it. He approached State Representative Jim Miceli with the idea and Miceli took on the challenge. He submitted the proposal before the House and managed to push it through several times only to watch it left out by the Senate or get knocked out by the Conference Committee each and every time.

Last year, Miceli wrote $80,000 for the construction of the pier into the House's budget and State Senator Bruce Tarr wrote the same figure into the Senate's budget.

Tarr was happy to join the cause.

"Silver Lake is a great resource that is currently under utilized," stated Tarr.

Having it included in both budgets protected it from being knocked out by the Conference Committee, but it didn't save it from Governor Romney's veto.

Miceli and Tarr rallied their forces and came up with the two-thirds vote necessary in both branches to override the Governor's veto.

"The override passed in the House by a voice count, in fact I think it may have been unanimous," Miceli stated.

Tarr took care of his territory within the Senate.

"The first step was bringing it to the attention of the Senate President," stated Tarr. "I think people understood how important it was to the people of Wilmington. It is a fitting tribute to a man who gave so much to the community."

would override all local and state opposition. Wilmington has vehemently opposed the project, which would transload various materials, including construction debris, contaminated soils, liquid chemicals, newsprint, non-hazardous waste, and other products, from trucks to rail road cars. The facility, as proposed, would include grinding and processing activities.

Roughly 400 truck trips per day may be generated by the facility, depending on the success of the business, and one train with roughly 25 cars would likely run per day on a six day per week schedule.

NET has petitioned the STB for a reconsideration of its dismissal or to remand the matter back to the Section of Environmental Analysis (SEA).

NET argues that substantial changes to the proposal did not occur. Even if the project had changed, however, change alone does not constitute reason for dismissal. According to NET's interpretation, only changes resulting in harm to the environment would warrant dismissal.

State Representative James Miceli has been in touch with top level officials of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), Alice Moore of the Public Protection Bureau in the Attorney General's Office, and dozens of lobbyists from the solid waste industries. He will be meeting with Woburn State Representative Patrick M. Natale within the next few days. According to Miceli, a strong coalition still stands against NET's Wilmington proposal.

"We've got a good shot at this, a very good shot," Miceli said. "We want to come on strong right now."

The National Solid Waste Management Association (NSWMA) has proven to be a strong ally. NSWMA opposes a federal exemption for NET from local and state regulations; regulations which are strictly adhered to by all other waste handlers.

According to Steve Changaris, Manager of the NSWMA's Northeast Region, STB's decision to dismiss was proper. His organization is planning to file in support of the board's decision and against a reconsideration.

"We're going to stay the course," Changaris said. "We're going to stay in the pocket and fight."

Wilmington Town Counsel Paul DeRensis is working with the coalition in developing the town's response.

"There will be an extensive and coordinated response from multiple sources," DeRensis said. "At this point we don't want to 'tip our hand' as to who will respond to what issues, nor as to what those responses will be."

Division 2 North tournament begins this week

Lady 'Cats gearing up for deep run

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Just once since 1992, the Wilmington High girls softball team has qualified for the Division 2 North sectional tournament. Under the direction of Bob Surran the team is a perfect 4-for-4, including sharing three league titles and having a record of 72-15 in his four years at the helm, including 15-4 this season.

On Friday afternoon, the Lady Wildcats will host Bedford in the first round of the state tournament at Aprile Field beginning at 3:30 pm. Wilmington is the No. 8 seed and Bedford comes in as the No. 9 seed with its 13-5 record coming from the Dual County League. Last year these two teams met in the first round and the 'Cats trounced all over the Buccaneers.

"Last year I thought Bedford was a notch below us," said Surran. "They were very young and we were pretty experienced and a veteran team. This year I think they have turned it up a little and we're not as experienced as we were so I'm expecting a real good game but I do think we should win."

Should Wilmington defeat Bedford, they will most likely travel to Amesbury to face the No. 1 seed Indians in the semifinals. Amesbury finished the season perfect at 20-0. In two games this season, ace pitcher Ashley Waters tossed two shut outs against the 'Cats giving up a combined two hits. On the season she's also knocked six home runs and driven in well over 30 runs. Amesbury faces the winner of Stoneham and Burlington on Friday in the first round.

"Of the 15 losses we have (since I've been here as coach) seven of them have come against Amesbury," said Surran with a laugh. "We're due for a win against them."

Wilmington will be led by its two Cape Ann League all-conference players. Shortstop Lani Cabral Pini leads the team in almost every offensive category. She ended the regular season with a .407 batting average, including 22 hits in 19 games, and an on base percentage rate of slightly over .600.

"She started off a little slow going 1-for-11 at the plate when the season started," said Surran. "Since then she has gone 21-for-43 (a .488 average) and she's just been incredible for us at the top of the order. She's also been very steady in the field for us making some highlight film kind of plays."

The second all-conference player is senior catcher Julie Martell. Last year she played second base and it was thought she would play third base this season. But injuries to other players forced Surran to shift some players around and she's settled in very nicely behind the plate. She really did a nice job of grooming the team's two new pitchers, Cathy Sheerin and Ashleigh Joyce.

"To get more than two all-league players is very tough," said Surran. "And the second choice was tough between Julie and Katie Martell. It's weird because they are twin sisters, who had the same amount of hits and the same amount of at bats which is really unusual. Julie caught and was in every play so I think that gave her a slight edge."

"But Katie played tremendous defensively at first base. Nothing has got by her all season long and that's been so important for the other three infielders, Caitlin Foley, Lani and Brittany Collins because they know they can throw it over there and Katie will make the play. But it was a very difficult choice."

After graduating three very good players from last year's team, who also had a big part of the success in the team's deep state tournament runs in the years prior, the 'Cats started off slow this season losing its first two games before ending the season winning 15 of their last 17 games, dropping games to just Amesbury and Rockport.

But during those 15 wins, the 'Cats knocked off some pretty good teams including Tewksbury, the No. 5 seed in the tournament, and Newton North, a strong Division 1 club.

"I think this season has been what I expected," said Surran. "We lost tough games to Triton, two to Amesbury (and then Tewksbury and Rockport). The Rockport loss was a major disappointment but overall I thought we did very well. The two Martells, Lani have had terrific seasons. Cathy Sheerin has rounded herself into a good pitcher."

"The two freshmen Katie Cole and Colleen Magee has worked out very nicely. Maggie Sorrentino started off a little slow but has come around at the end. I expected to lose four or five games and the season's been pretty much what I thought it would be."

The section is probably the deepest out of any of division. Amesbury is clearly the team to beat, however, Concord-Carlisle and Tewksbury are right there with the Indians, not to mention solid clubs like Belmont, Triton and Dracut could make some noise.

seen all season long.

"I do think Amesbury is the favorite. Waters' has been painting the corners and is much more accurate than I've ever seen her before."

In order for the 'Cats to make another deep run, Surran said that's very simple.

"We can't afford to make errors," he said. "Of the five games we have lost we've had mental and physical errors which have been the reasons for the losses. If we play the caliber we are capable of, I

Wilmington High junior Brittany Collins was pretty busy in the team's win over Hamilton-Wenham recently. Above she makes a stop on a throw with an oncoming runner sliding in, and below she looks for signs from head coach Bob Surran during an at-bat.

Collins and the rest of the Lady Wildcats begin state tournament play on Friday when they host Bedford for the second straight season in the opening round of Division 2 North sectional play.

The softball team was the lone team during the spring season to advance to the state tournament.

(JoeBrownphotos.com)

Wilmington High senior shortstop Lani Cabral Pini stretches to make a put out at second base during a recent Cape Ann League girls softball game.

(JoeBrownphotos.com)

"There's a lot of 17-3 teams," said Surran. "Dracut is kind of an unknown and they are a good club. Amesbury is right there, and Concord-Carlisle will be tough. Tewksbury is also 17-3 and if Liz Mucica is on they are very tough because she's as good of a pitcher as we have think we can make it very difficult for teams to win. We have done a nice job all season long of putting the ball in play.

"If we continue to do that, put pressure on their defense and get good pitching and defense from our end, we're going to be pretty tough."

Murray and Mello top track highlights

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High boys and girls outdoor track teams participated in the Class C State Meet held this past Saturday at Mansfield High School before it resumed with the 18th and final event, the pole vault, at Weston High School on Monday afternoon.

The boys team finished with 12 points in a tie for 17th place with Walpole. Twenty-seven teams at least scored a point. Bishop Feehan won the boys competition with 64 points, followed by Mansfield and Tewksbury.

The girls team scored just five points and finished 19th overall as 25 teams scored at least a point. Tewksbury won the meet by placing second, third and fourth in the pole vault on Monday which pushed them over the top of defeating Mansfield and Wellesley, who were the first and second place teams after Saturday but finished second and third, respectively.

The highlights for Wilmington came from senior Chris Murray and junior Jackie Mello, who were the lone two performers to advance to Saturday's All-State Meet which will begin at 9:30 am at Worcester State College.

Chris Murray finished second in the one mile race. He led for most of it until the last lap and a half until Tewksbury's Peter Fortunato passed him and put on a great kid at the end. Fortunato came across the finish line at 4:30.09 and Murray still ran very well and took second at 4:31.76.

Senior Brian Giamberardino placed fourth in the javelin to take four points for the team. He tossed 164-10, to equal his best mark of the season. The 4x400 relay team of Chris Crosby, Tom Barry, Alex Robinson and Chris Condell, as well as the 4x800 team of Murray, Alex Chalmers, Tyler Summers and PJ Russo all put forth strong efforts, but those teams weren't able to place in the top six of their respective races.

"The 4x800 team was a little disappointing," said head coach Bob Cripps. "I thought they could have and should have done better. Chris ran strong. He made several tactical errors which are correctable for next week. His first three strides have to be quicker. He got boxed in on the corner, but all of that is fixable and we're looking forward to a successful race on Saturday."

"And Brian equaled his best throw of the season and he did well."

As for the girls, Mello performed well to take fourth place in the 200 coming in at 26.56 seconds. Tewksbury senior Stephanie Gaynor was tops at 25.33. Both of them as well as Saugus' Kelsey Anderson and Kaitlin Lamothe are among those who qualify for Saturday's All-State Meet.

Senior Debbie Lyons placed sixth to grab a point for the team in the 100 meter hurdles. She came across at 16.82 but just the top four places advance to the all-state meet.

"I was surprised with Debbie," said coach Tom Bradley. "She did a lot better than I thought she would and I was glad that she was able to get a medal in her last race. Jackie did pretty much what I thought she would do. She qualifies for the all-states and ran pretty much her same time all season."

Ungvarsky qualifies for Jr. World Championships

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Professional golf fans in Wilmington may someday have a rooting interest when they tune in to watch a week-end tournament from some exotic locale. Of course, most fans probably already have a favorite, be it Tiger Woods or another tour veteran, but in the future there may very well be a local player to cheer on.

Wilmington High junior Zack Ungvarsky may still have a way to go before he can make the jump to the professional ranks, but he certainly has the look of a player who could someday make a living on the links.

Last weekend Ungvarsky competed in the United States Challenge Cup regional qualifier at Firefly Country Club in Seekonk, and shot an even par 59 to tie for the tournament championship, and more importantly, qualify for the Junior World Golf Championship which will be held at Torrey Pines Golf Course in San Diego, California from July 12-15.

Making Ungvarsky's showing in the Challenge Cup even more impressive is that going into the tournament he wasn't sure he would be at his best.

"That day I woke up and felt I was not swinging well at all," Ungvarsky said. "So my dad and I went out early and I must have hit about 250 balls, but I was still trying to find my swing. So I was pretty shocked to do so well, but at the same time I proved to myself that I could do it."

Now, if the talk of professional golf for such a young player sounds like a lot of hyperbole, consider some of the players that have competed in the Junior World Championships that Ungvarsky is preparing for. Players like Ernie Els, Phil Mickelson, Corey Pavin and Tiger Woods himself, have all made their way to this prestigious tournament which has featured some of the best young golfers in the world from over 73 countries since its inception in 1968.

This will be Ungvarsky's second consecutive trip to the Junior Championships, and while last year's trip did not go quite as well as he would have liked, he feels more prepared this year.

Zack Ungvarsky

"Last year I was kind of in shock even after the first couple of rounds to be playing on the same course as Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson and all the rest of those guys," Ungvarsky said. "It takes a while to set in, but after a while you realize you are there for a reason."

The Junior Championships are not the only big tournament that Ungvarsky is preparing for this summer. On June 20, he will compete in the New England Interscholastic Golf Championships at Brentwood Country Club in Keene, New Hampshire, with some of the best golfers in New England.

"I actually know some of the kids that have played in that tournament," Ungvarsky said.

"One again the competition will be about as good as it can be so I am looking forward to playing against them."

Ungvarsky qualified for the New England Championships thanks to a second place finish in the 2004 state finals for Wilmington High. While most golfers would consider a second place finish in the state tournament the highlight of their career, Ungvarsky knows it could have been even better.

"To me it was actually disappointing because I was two under after three or four holes, and then I had a double bogey," Ungvarsky said. "It did not seem like much at the time because I was playing well, but when you consider that I lost by one shot, it was huge."

If Ungvarsky seems like somewhat of a perfectionist on the golf course, it may come from some of his role models in the game. Ungvarsky did not begin playing competitive golf until about age 13 and did not really start swinging a club at all until he was about 10 years old, relatively late in life compared to some golf prodigies.

But despite the late start, Ungvarsky had some major help from family members like his brothers Aaron and Jordan, both former Wildcat stars, as well as his uncle, PGA Tour professional Joey Sindelar.

"I have to give a lot of credit to my brothers. I saw what they did and how well they performed and it got me thinking about trying it," Ungvarsky said. "Before that I had mostly played soccer, but something about golf drew me in."

Ungvarsky visits Sindelar at his New York about three or four times a year and counts those times as some of his most enjoyable, as he gets the opportunity to play golf with his cousin and relax with his uncle whom he views as merely uncle Joey as opposed to a professional that some would be in awe of.

His next visit to his uncle's home will serve two purposes, as not only will he enjoy the normal fun of the visit, but about an hour's drive from his uncle's place, at the Aurora Country Club in Aurora, New York, Ungvarsky will play in the International Junior Master's from June 27-July 1, once again facing some of the best young competition in the world.

Facing such competition and playing on such prestigious courses can't do anything but help Ungvarsky in the future, and it also helps him keep some perspective on his success.

"It just shows that there are kids out there that are going to be better than you," Ungvarsky said. "You can't take a day off, but if you do you have to work all the harder the next day. You can't make a mistake against these kids."

And of course once his summer whirlwind ends, Ungvarsky will head back to Wilmington High where he will once again try to lead the Wildcats to the top of the Cape Ann League. With all of his success elsewhere, you may think that high school golf is the least of his priorities, but nothing could be further from the truth.

"Wilmington High is the best thing that has ever happened to me," Ungvarsky said. "My brothers and the Velardo family kind of revolutionized golf in Wilmington and I enjoy being part of that. I am looking forward to my senior year. I am looking forward to all of it."

Wilmington High senior Bobby Sinopoli was named the Cape Ann All-Conference baseball team after having a superb season on the mound despite injuries for the 4-16 Wildcats.

High School should retire Fullerton's jersey

Dear Jamie,

Every year the WHS Athletic Association holds their "Hall of Fame" nominations. I would like to ask the association to nominate John J. Fullerton, Jr. WHS Fullback No. 32.

As we all know from WHS, Jackie was killed in action, during the Tet, on January 31st, 1968, after saving the life of a Vietnamese civilian, who was caught in the crossfire, then left the safety of the Embassy and returned to his unit, where Jackie was killed.

Jackie was already wounded three times in Vietnam, before being assigned to Saigon, for easy duty. Jackie was to come home in February 1968, but was killed, just day prior. What better and more fitting way to honor one of our own Heroes from WHS. This being the 30th Anniversary of the fall of Saigon.

I am writing to ask for the towns support, and help in honoring John J. Fullerton, Jr., by retiring his number and inducting him into the WHS Athletic Hall of Fame.

Sincerely,
Frederick Shine

State Tournament Preview

Baseball team will travel to the city

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After its last three regular season games were washed out because of rain, the Tewksbury High baseball team will have gone 12 days between games when they take on Latin Academy in the first round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament.

Tewksbury finished the season at 8-7 and drew the No. 12 seed. Latin Academy finished at 13-5 playing in the Boston City League and they are the fifth seed, therefore they will host the game on Saturday afternoon beginning at 4:00 pm.

If Tewksbury can beat LA they will advance to the quarterfinal round to take on the winner of Winchester/East Boston, with the date, time and place yet to be announced (most likely Monday - at home if Winchester wins, and at East Boston if they win). Winchester is the No. 13 seed with a 10-9 record and East Boston is the No. 4 seed with a 15-5 record.

Head coach Ron Drouin will be taking a team to the tournament for the eighth straight year, and none of those teams have advanced past the quarterfinal round.

"This is my favorite time of the year," said Drouin. "This is what it's all about. The state tournament. We've never been out of the quarterfinals and I think if we ever did this town would explode and everyone would really get behind this team if we got on a roll. And I'd love to see it."

To do that, is not going to be easy although certainly the potential is there. This season the Redmen have struggled a lot with their bats, but the pitching has been outstanding. Junior Matt Monico was named the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 2 Player of the Year. He finished the regular season with a 5-2 record and a 1.25 ERA.

Senior Bill LaVigne was named to the all-star team after his 2-3 mark with an 2.04 ERA despite not getting much run support at all.

"We need to score runs in the tournament," said Drouin. "I think in game one we'll be OK with our pitching but we need to score some runs and put pressure on their defense. I really think that if we can score runs, especially early on, we're as dangerous as any team out there."

"But if we don't hit or score runs we're not going to beat anyone. We need to take pressure off of our pitchers and defense and let them breathe a bit by scoring some runs. We need to get guys on so we can create stuff, do some bunts, some steals and some hit and runs."

The last time Tewksbury played was on Monday, May 23 when it dropped a 10-3 game to Billerica in a rain fested game that was called off after five innings in the first round of the Lowell Spinners World Series tournament.

Then because of rain the consolation game of the tournament, as well as the two games in the annual Lawrence tournament were also called off meaning the Redmen have gone almost two full weeks without playing in a tensed atmosphere.

That along with the fact that this was senior week at the high school certainly worries Drouin.

"Yes that worries me a lot to be honest," said Drouin. "We're going to try to scrimmage a team, hopefully on Thursday but if we can't we're going to have some more intra squad games. I'd like to bring in a Division 1 team but the problem is most of the MVC teams are playing preliminary games on Thursday. Andover's not so I'm going to see if they would like to scrimmage us."

Drouin said that he hasn't made up his mind yet of who will pitch on Saturday. He was leaning towards LaVigne but said he and his assistant coach (and best friend) Bill Blackwell will talk things over.

Last year the Redmen went into the tournament with a sub-par record but escaped with a first round win over Melrose (6-2) before losing to the No. 1 seed Danvers, 2-0, in a terrific game.

"That was a great game but another tough loss," said Drouin. "But looking back we had five sophomores and three juniors in that starting line-up and that's a tough task for some inexperienced and some immature kids who really were untested at that time. And it's very tough to ask them to go into Danvers and beat the number one seed. But I think that game gave some guys a test of what it's all about."

Over the eight year run in the tourney, Tewksbury has battled through some very tough defeats, including two heart-breakers to Reading, and the worst one of all against Stoneham in 2000.

"This is what it's all about," said Drouin. "As a coach you wonder if you're team is getting better, if you have good kids on your team, and if they come to play. This is the time when you have to come to play. It's the state tournament and you want other teams to see you walk in and say 'hey this team is for real'."

"We've had some struggles in the state tournament in years past and that bothers me. It bothers me that we haven't done anything yet in the tournament. We've had some tough losses, but this is the time to step forward and win some games."

Drouin added that Danvers is again the team to beat. The Falcons return just about the entire team, from last year's club and again drew the No. 1 seed. Westford Academy and Burlington are also very strong and are the second and third seeds respectively.

"We still have some work to do, but I'm very excited," said Drouin. "It's nice that we had the player of the year and got five guys on the all-star team and stuff like that. That's nice but when it comes to the state tournament, no one cares. It's time to show up and play. That's what it's all about."

"Everyone is 0-0. No one is 13-5, no one is 8-7 - everyone's 0-0 and you go one game at a time and hope you can keep surviving."

Tewksbury High girls tennis

Many memories despite tough season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

In the end when you walk off the court, the wins and losses don't truly matter. Later on in life when you reflect upon your high school athletic careers, it'll be about the memories, the friendships and not about the wins and losses.

For the Tewksbury High girls tennis team, this year was certainly very disappointing in terms of the wins and losses.

A year after qualifying for the state tournament for the first time in school history and returning almost the entire team, the Lady Redmen finished the season at 1-12. However, head coach George Kalarites still enjoyed this season as much as he enjoyed last season.

"I would have bet you my coach's salary that we would have had more than one win," he said. "I still don't believe it. But we did get better and better as the season went along. We have 11 girls coming back next year who all have experience."

"The girls are talking about getting together several times a week for captain practices so that's a good sign. I still really enjoyed myself. The girls were wonderful."

First singles player Katie MacDonald ended her career as arguably the best tennis player the program's ever had. Kalarites wasn't sure as of press time but there was a good chance that she would be named the MVC Small School Conference Player of the Year for the second straight season.

She was 10-4 this season and 14-3 last year, while playing in the individual state tournament as a sophomore and a junior.

Summer track meets scheduled

The annual Tewksbury Summer Track meets will be held again on every Thursday beginning July 14th and will run until the end of August. Under the direction of Chris Stone for the second year, the meets are held for all children of any ages. The meets will begin at 6:00 pm on Thursday, all held at Tewksbury High School.

She leaves with a 24-7 record in her last two seasons for a team that had six combined wins during that span. She'll be attending the Commonwealth College at UMass Amherst in the fall, after graduating fourth in her academic class at TMHS.

Besides MacDonald, Kalarites will be losing a handful of other seniors. Kim Saltmarsh and Ashlee Andrews will be graduating. Both of them had been members of the team up until this season when they decided to take the season off because of their work load at school. Saltmarsh will be going to Hofstra University and Andrews will be going to Richmond College in London, England.

The last two seniors include Amanda Watkins who will be attending the University of Rhode Island, and Ashley Lefebvre will be attending New England Community College to major in nursing. Kalarites said that he's going to miss all of the seniors and he really appreciated everything they did for the program.

Next year's team will return a core of experienced players including juniors Amy Chaisson, Shannon O'Neil, Barrett Ritchmaier, Vicky Wong and Kerry Wilson. Sophomores will include Katie Martin, Julie MacDonald and Christina Rohrbacher.

"We'll have two seniors, nine juniors and two sophomores next year," said Kalarites. "I think if the girls continue to take lessons, they'll get better and we'll be better. I think there's a lot of talent especially among those sophomores so we'll be looking to be much better next year."

Herb Chambers

Girls Under 10-3 soccer team undefeated at tournament

The Wilmington Girls U-10 3 team finished undefeated in the Nashua Girls Soccer Association Memorial Day Tournament. It was a hot, sunny Saturday afternoon and the Lady Cats opened the weekend with an impressive win of 7-0 against the Nashua Girls Soccer Association team. Later that afternoon the Wildcats matched the heat of the day and smoked the S.T.S. (Soccer Training Systems) team with a 6-1 win.

The Wilmington Wildcats faced two challenging opponents the next day and the play became very physical. Wilmington's defense played aggressively and formed an impenetrable wall shutting out both teams on Sunday.

Wilmington's offense wasted no time and took an early lead against Marlborough and kept up the pressure the entire game giving Wilmington a 1-0 win. Once again, Wilmington's quick-footed offense blasted an early shot into the net, while Wilmington's powerhouse defense held back the Hebron, CT team to secure Wilmington's 1-0 victory.

It was a fun and enjoyable weekend of soccer for this young, talented team and their coaches. The girls gained valuable experience and provided the Wilmington fans with an exciting weekend of soccer!

Under 11A girls take on Revere

The Wilmington Wildcats GU11A travel team played host to Revere this past Sunday. The girls got off to a quick start as they scored in the opening minutes of play. Michaela Stone sent a beautiful cross to Jennifer Stewart waiting on the far post to finish off the shot. This set the tone for the match, which Wilmington dominated throughout.

Revere did their best to keep up with our girls, including hard physical challenges. Sweeper Meaghan Stinson was on the wrong end of a challenge and was knocked to the ground during a gusty defensive play. Melanie Folk, Geena DiNuccio and Robin Hollenbeck finish out the defense force.

Taylor Cushing was next to score, being in the perfect position to send off a solid blast. Fellow forwards Valerie Belding and Paige Bennett hustled to create other scoring opportunities.

In the second half, Wilmington continued to demonstrate great ball possession. Emily Crannell, Lisa Hitchins and Lexi Arsenault set up several strong offensive attacks. Alexa Brown completed the day's scoring with a shot just past the keeper's reach. The locals played a solid game from start to finish and ended the day with a 3-0 victory.

Wilmington offers many summer clinics

All Sports Clinic

The 4th Annual Wildcats All Sports Clinic for boys and girls from grades 2 through 8 will be held from July 11-15 from 9 am to 2 pm daily.

The cost is $125.00 per child. A variety of sports will be offered with sportsmanship and fair play at all times. All participants will receive a T-shirt.

For More information call Bob Almeida at 978-694-6081 x 2270.

Football Camp

The 3rd Annual Redmen-Wildcat Football Clinic will be held at Livingston Street Park in Tewksbury, from June 27-30, 9 A.M. to 2 P.M. The cost is $99.00 per child. Outstanding instruction from Wilmington and Tewksbury players and coaches, plus counselors from both teams. There will be drills, contests, lectures and games everyday. Non-contact. All players will receive hat and a T-shirt.

For more information contact Bob Almeida at 978-694-6081 x 2270, or Brian Awylard at 978-658-3743.

Wildcat Soccer Clinic, July 11th - July 22nd

Registrations are now being accepted for the annual Wildcat Soccer Clinic. Wildcat Soccer Clinic strives to guide the community's youth towards the understanding and appreciation for the game of soccer. The basics of the game will be taught in a friendly, spirited environment that encourages fair play and sportsmanship.

This year's clinic begins with a one week girl's clinic at the Woburn Street School Field, July 11th - July 15th from 9:00 am - 2:00 P.M., followed by a one week boy's clinic at the Woburn Street School Field, July 18th - July 22nd from 9:00 am - 2:00 P.M.. Recommended ages are 7 - 13 years old, and the cost of a one week clinic is $150.00 per player along with a $10 discount for a second family member. For additional information, or to receive a clinic brochure, contact Clinic Directors, Mark DiGiovanni at 978-658-9249 or Justin Vallas at 978-657-7266.

NR Hitting School

The North Reading Baseball School will be conducting its camp during the following one-week sessions: June 27 - July 1 and July 11 - July 15. All one-week sessions begin at 9:00 am and end at 3:30 pm daily. Tuition is $175.00 and includes daily lunch, soda, T-shirt, and cookout. Ages 8 years to 17 years accepted.

Specialty camps for pitchers/catchers or hitting - July 5 & 6: $80. Excellent staff with low ratio. For more information, call Frank Carey at (781)595-5628 or write to North Reading Baseball School, P.O. Box 161, North Reading, MA 01864.

Reading Baseball

The Reading Baseball School will offer three weeks of instructional programs this summer for boys and girls of ages 5 to 13. Each clinic includes intensive instruction in the proper fundamentals of hitting, throwing, fielding, pitching, baserunning, bunting, infield play, and outfield play. Players will improve specific skills through drills, demonstrations, videotape sessions, and scrimmages. The school is directed by Pete Moscariello 27 year Baseball Coach at Reading High School.

Players will be divided into smaller groups, by age and ability, and emphasis will be placed on individual instruction and improvement. Participants will learn from an outstanding staff and enjoy the use of excellent equipment.

This summer the Hawkes Field House is under construction and unavailable so we will run the program almost entirely outdoors. We will offer our program in 3 or 4 day clinics in order to provide a rain-out date for each week. Each clinic provides the option of a Morning Clinic (9:00 am - 12:30 pm) or Full-Day Clinic (9:00 am - 3:00 pm).

We will use the same Birch Meadow ball fields as in the past, plus Morton Baseball Field & Batting Cage and the Birch Meadow School (for videotape sessions) We guarantee the same intensive, comprehensive, and fun program as in the past; we will just be outdoors more frequently - the way baseball is meant to be played!

Players may choose any combination of the following clinics and sessions

Week A: 3 days: Tuesday, June 28 through Thursday, June 30 Rain date: Friday, July 1 * Week B: 4 days: Tuesday, July 5 through Friday, July 8 Rain date: Monday, July 11*

Week C: 4 days: Tuesday, July 12 through Friday, July 15 Rain date: Monday, July 18*

Players may choose the Morning Clinic (9:00 am - 12:30 pm) or Full-Day Clinic (9:00 am - 3:00 pm) each week.

*Additional days during the week of July 8 will be used if additional rain dates are necessary.

Full details, with fees and registration procedure, are included on our brochure/application and on our website.

Summer Baseball

We will again offer Reading Recreation Summer Baseball for boys and girls who will be in grades K through 4 next fall. The program will include three games and one practice each week. The purpose of Reading Recreation Summer Baseball is to provide a format for instruction and games, in an atmosphere of fun and encouragement. While daily instruction is a key part of this program, players who desire more intensive, complete instruction should consider The Reading Baseball School.

This summer we will offer 16 dates (one more than in the past) by running the program 4 days per week for 4 weeks: Monday through Thursday, July 25 - August 18.

There are three divisions/age groups as follows:

Pre-Rookie: for players entering kindergarten

Rookie: for players entering grades 1 or 2

Rocket: for players entering grades 3 or 4

Times, dates, and fees are shown on our brochure and website.

Under 13 lacrosse team explodes in the second half

The Under 13 Blue lacrosse team played one of the most exciting games of the season last week. They exploded for six goals in the second half of Sundays game against a talented Marblehead / Swampscott team.

Marblehead / Swampscott is also known as Black and Blue youth Lacrosse (BBYL).

After being held scoreless in the first half the Wildcats turned it on and showed some great teamwork. The first goal was scored when Nick Masiello took the ball off the face-off. He drove around the defenders and put a nice bounce shot by the goalie. Another bounce shot, this one by Nick Luise was goal number two.

The two Nicks combined as Masiello passed to an open Luise who made the shot count. The third goal would be the first of a Scott Layton hat-trick. John Malone passed the ball from X to the front of the net where Layton swept it into the net. Layton's next goal, a quick release shot, was again set up from a Malone pass.

Malone had caught a pass from a hard working Trevor Foley. The fifth goal was started when Goalie Frankie Mearls clearing throw was caught by Malone who got it to Gordon Fitch. Fitch drove to the net and put a nice shot by the goalie. Layton's last goal was scored when Domenic DiRupo moved the ball up field. DiRupo passed to Layton who was in position to fire the ball past the goalie.

Helping by moving the ball up field were middies Joe Aucoin and Bobby Carlin. They worked to get the loose balls and get them into the offensive zone.

Ryan Walsh and Alex Danas kept the BBYL offense from breaking out by making some good stick checks. Stepping up and making some great body checks were Tom Cushing, Adam Oliver, and Aristide Palm. They forced the opponents attackers to loose the ball and moved the play out of the Wildcats zone. Goalie Frankie Mearls faced 28 shots. He broke his stick and was generously lent the back-up stick of the BBYL goalie.

If you look at Frankie's legs you would say BB (black and blue) does stand for the marks they leave.

The Wildcats return to action June 5th as they play their last regular game of the season at home. The season will be followed by taking part in the lacrosse Jamboree at Fort Devens on June 19th.

Under 9-2 girls soccer team completes great weekend

The Wilmington GU9-2 youth girls travel soccer team had a great weekend of soccer.

On Saturday, the girls took on a tough Tewksbury team in what proved to be a great match. The action started early with Nicole Potcner once again dominating the goal keeper slot for Wilmington. Nicole made several key saves which kept the girls alive in the first half. Kerry Ryan and Christina D.Ambrosio kept the opponents at bay with strong defensive play.

With just twenty seconds left in the first half, a Tewksbury forward stole the ball in tight and lofted a tough shot into the far corner. The second half continued to be a defensive struggle. Heather Benson took over in goal and was soon tested with several dead on shots. Tewksbury scored again at the 7:00 mark of the second half despite excellent defensive work by Marina Otis.

The Wilmington girls turned up the heat on the offense and were finally rewarded. Adrianna Kippenberger took a soft pass from line mate Chloe Castellano and rifled a shot to the back of the net to cut the lead to one. Several close in scoring chances by Juliet and Kathryn McFadden were thwarted by the Tewksbury keeper right at the end of the game.

Saturday afternoon, the girls took on an older and stronger Billerica team and left the field with a hard fought defeat. Katherine McKenna and Kathryn McFadden shared the keeper duties in this one. There was plenty of action at both ends of the field with tremendous runs by Caitlin Parrot creating several strong scoring chances. Adrian Kippenberger continued her scoring streak with a beautiful shot to the far post.

Early Sunday morning the team battled the Wilmington U10-4 squad and gave the fourth graders all they could handle. Casey Macdonald kept the pressure on in the attacking end as she made several key passes to teammates Juliet McFadden and Caitlin Parrot.

The defense again held tough with Nicole Potcner, Kerry Ryan and Heather Benson keeping the ball away from the Wilmington net.

In the final and most exciting game of the tournament, Christina D.Ambrosio took over in goal for the Wildcats and made several outstanding saves against a powerful kicking team. The offensive unit of Chloe Castellano, Adrianna Kippenberger and Casey Macdonald forced excellent shots at the Billerica end. The Wildcats were frustrated by the great play of the Billerica keeper who turned back shot after shot. The girls took a 0-0 tie into halftime.

Wilmington ran out of gas in the second half after a very long day at the pitch. The never say die Wildcats played tough but were over matched in this one.

The weekend ended with rings, cupcakes and medals for all. Congratulations on a great tournament girls!

Rams boys lacrosse team eliminated in first round

The Shawsheen Tech Boys Lacrosse team ended a solid season on Tuesday afternoon with a 7-3 loss to Marblehead at home. Coach Al Costabile's team finished the season with an 11-4 record. It was also the last game Costabile will coach, as he will take over as the athletic director. He will still remain the football coach.

The Shawsheen Tech boys lacrosse team saw their season come to a disappointing end on Tuesday afternoon with a 7-3 loss to Marblehead in the first round of the Division 2 East Tournament, but the loss could not overshadow what was another outstanding regular season for the Rams, who finished the regular season with an 11-4 record in the Mass Technical Lacrosse League.

The impressive regular season concluded last week with a pair of wins over MTL rivals, Lynn Tech and Minuteman. The Rams earned a 10-0 road victory over Lynn Tech last Monday and followed it up with their season finale at home, an 8-7 triumph over Minuteman in which the Rams needed to hold on in the second half to secure the victory.

The Rams held a commanding 4-0 halftime lead over Minuteman, and an 8-4 lead with just six minutes left in the game, but Minuteman fought back to pull within one goal with 1:30 left in the game.

"They just started to get some daylight and they've got some good players who were able to take advantage of it," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "We let down a little in intensity, but you have to give credit to them because they got some chances and capitalized on them."

Tewksbury resident Peter Capraro, a senior attack, continued his remarkable season with a pair of goals to give him 25 for the season, while senior attack John McLaughlin added a pair of goals and an assist.

The Rams got well balanced scoring with Dan Roy, Ron Raymond, Mike Arricale and Aaron Stanton each adding a goal. Raymond added a pair of assists, while leading scorer Kyle Marzeotti added four assists to give him 25 assists on the season to go along with his 32 goals.

"It was good to see a lot of kids contribute like that," Costabile said. "It was a good game to go into the state tournament with, and it was nice way to end the season with a hotly contested game."

Against an undermanned Lynn Tech squad the Rams did what they needed to do to secure the victory, scoring five quick goals in the early going and coasting the rest of the way. Senior Midfielder Ron Gordon of Tewksbury had a pair of goals as did Roy and Arricale.

Raymond added a goal as did Tewksbury residents Dave Lloyd, a sophomore attack, and Rich Fantasia, a junior midfielder. Another Tewksbury resident Eric Ryals, a senior midfielder, added his first career goal.

Senior goalie Hank Chase of Tewksbury had 8 saves for the shutout and followed that up with 14 saves in the Minuteman victory.

Heading into the Marblehead game Costabile knew his team would be in for quite the battle. Marblehead plays in the very tough Northeast Conference with the likes of Beverly, Salem and Danvers, so their record heading into the tournament (9-9) did not indicate the talent level on the team.

The Rams had also faced Marblehead in the first round of the tournament two years ago and lost by a score of 14-4.

"They are in with three great programs. They lost to those teams, but so did a lot of others," Costabile said. "It is going to be very competitive. They play a division 2 schedule all year long, whereas we play Division 3 and move up to Division 2 just for the tournament."

Softball team just misses playoffs

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech softball team did not accomplish their goal of qualifying for the state tournament this season, finishing with an 8-12 record, but in years to come, this season will likely be looked back on as a year that truly helped the program.

After losing several key players off of last year's team that won the North Sectional championship, including all-star pitcher Jenn Elwell, it was difficult to know what to expect from the Lady Rams this season, and the team did show some growing pains throughout the season. But the good news is that those growing pains will likely pay big dividends next season.

"I am very happy with the progress we made during the season," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "The second half of our schedule was much more difficult than the first so we did not win as many games, but that is not indicative of the way the team played. The kids really started to get it, and it was very encouraging."

The Lady Rams still had a shot at a tournament berth heading into the season's final week thanks to their ability to play like a poised and veteran team down the stretch. With a 6-10 record and just four games remaining, Shawsheen needed to win all four to qualify for the tournament. They responded to the pressure and won a pair of games to improve to 8-10 before being eliminated by Minuteman in a 6-4 loss last Thursday.

In the Minuteman game the Lady Rams were the victim of one bad inning, allowing all six runs in the fourth inning thanks to multiple errors. Shawsheen responded and pulled closer, but were unable to pull out the win. To Buckley the game was a perfect example of her team learning to win, but not being quite ready at this point in their development.

"We had said that the way we react to errors would tell us how we would do this season, and we did not react well in this one because we did not make just one error, but a bunch of them to lead to their runs," Buckley said. "That is a young, inexperienced team because we got rattled. We have to learn that if you make a mistake, you just have to make the next play."

In the Minuteman loss, fans of the Lady Rams got a glimpse of the future, as freshman Katie Hogan of Tewksbury had a pair of hits and an RBI, continuing her sensational first season with the varsity club.

"Katie started off hot this season, but then hit a bit of a rough streak where she got a little worried about that," Buckley said. "But then she started to relax a little and finished the season strong. She is going to be a very good hitter for us."

Fans also saw the last of one of the Lady Rams' biggest stars, as senior Cailyn McLaughlin of Tewksbury went 3-for-4 with a triple and two runs scored. McLaughlin finished the season as the team's leading hitter with a .361 average, and a .513 on base percentage. Buckley knows that McLaughlin will be sorely missed next season and is appreciative of what she meant to the team this year.

"I can't say enough for what Cailyn did for us this year," Buckley said. "She found herself with an infield around her that was totally inexperienced and she worked with them every day to make them better. She was tremendous, and she also did a great job at the plate for us."

The Lady Rams will also lose four other key seniors, as Kristine Elwell of Tewksbury, Ashley Robar of Wilmington, Elena Cowan and Heather Thomas will all leave for graduation.

"Kristine is a kid who had tough luck her whole career, missing her sophomore year with a rotator cuff injury. She came back this year and pitched two great games for us, but then could not pitch again,"

Buckley said. "That's a hard thing for a high school kid. She had a lot of talent and never got to show it."

Buckley was equally impressed with her other seniors.

"Ashley was a four year starter for us, and she did a great job both offensively and defensively. We moved her to several different positions and she did a great job. We will definitely miss her," Buckley said. "And Heather did a fabulous job for us, moving from catcher to third base. Elena is a kid that everyone should dream about. I told her at the start of the year I was not sure how much she would play, but she worked hard and turned herself into our best rightfielder."

Next year's senior leaders will of course come from this year's junior class, and Buckley has a couple of good ones in pitcher Marissa Porter and centerfielder Melissa Gouveia.

"Marissa was huge for us this year. She did not have a good record, but she pitched very well and we let her down defensively. She did a terrific job and never complained," Buckley said. "And Melissa moved to center field for us and did a great job. She made some great plays out there for us."

Girls lacrosse program a hit at Shawsheen Tech

BILLERICA - The first-ever practice?

"It was absolute mayhem," said coach Liz Richards.

But in the weeks since girls lacrosse made its debut at Shawsheen Tech in Billerica, mayhem has evolved into skill and a whole lot of fun for a group of almost 60 girls.

"(Assistant coach) Maria Baker came up to me the other day and said 'Wow, did they catch on fast,'" said Richards. "Within five days, they were catching and throwing the ball. The progress I've seen is incredible."

So were the numbers. While the idea of girls lacrosse had been talked about for a few years at Shawsheen, it wasn't until this year that a sign-up sheet that Richards presented to Superintendent of Schools Charlie Lyons with 100 names on it got the wheels moving.

"(Lyons) was all for it," Richards said. "I said 'Great,'" Lyons said. "We went to the school committee and got a few dollars to run an intramural program."

"The enthusiasm is there," added Al Costabile, the boys lacrosse coach and Shawsheen's new athletic director as of next year. "The girls are all psyched. I think it's a good thing for the school."

Richards was a perfect candidate to be the program's first coach.

A physical education teacher at Shawsheen, Richards played lacrosse at her high school in New York and went on to play in college for four years at SUNY-Cortland.

Shawsheen opened its season May 2 and played five other games during the course of the spring campaign. Opponents consisted of junior varsity and freshman teams from Billerica, Tyngsboro and Dracut. The Rams beat the Billerica High freshman team and lost by only one goal to Tyngsboro.

"I just wish there were more games," said Jamie Chase of Tewksbury, a senior whose brother Hank plays for the boys lacrosse squad. "This is so much fun. What I really like is that the freshmen are as good as the seniors," Richards said. "There's no pecking order, it's all one big team. What a great way to bring high school girls together."

It's the first step in a process that will certainly lead to another varsity sport at Shawsheen.

"It's awesome," Richards said. "The girls are having a blast. Everyone that wanted to play is playing and it's good, there's no pressure on the girls. We hope it gets to be a varsity program next year," said Lyons.

"Anything we can do to keep the students involved in quality after-school activities under good adult supervision, we're going to do that. We've expanded opportunities for young girls in the last 10 years with track and field, soccer and volleyball and this is just another expansion of those activities and we're really excited about it."

Baseball team draws first round tourney bye

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech baseball team wrapped up a remarkable regular season this past week, finishing with a 16-4 record that earned them a number four seed and bye in the first round of the Division 3 North Tournament. The Rams will open tournament play on Saturday afternoon at 4:00 at home against the winner of Thursday's preliminary round game between 13th seeded Swampscott and 20th seeded Winthrop.

Shawsheen coach Kevin Bloom obviously likes what his team has accomplished to this point in the season, but he also knows that it does not matter much once tournament play gets under way.

"It was good for us to get the bye and be able to play a team in the first round that has to play a preliminary round game," Bloom said. "Other than that, you can throw the seeding out the window."

The Rams learned this first hand the past two seasons, as two years ago they finished the regular season with an 18-2 record and earned the top seed in the tournament only to get bounced in the first round. Last season on the other hand, the Rams were seeded 13th, but won a pair of games in the tourney, including a second round upset over fourth seeded North Reading.

With that as a backdrop, Bloom knows his team will have to be at their best regardless of which opponent they draw on Saturday.

"We are a little familiar with both teams, and we will scout the preliminary game and find out what we can," Bloom said.

"But the bottom line is we need to do the right things to win and that means making good pitches, not making mistakes and getting a key hit when we can."

If the Rams are victorious, they would host a quarterfinal game on Monday afternoon.

The Rams have actually already begun tournament play, with a 12-7 win in the first round of the state vocational tournament on Monday against Diman Voke of Fall River. The Rams used a 10 run fourth inning to erase a 2-0 deficit and blow the game open.

"We had gone down nine in a row at that point, but they made a few mistakes and we were able to take advantage of it," Bloom said.

A couple of big hits in the inning came from a pair of locals as sophomore Mike Oliveira of Tewksbury got things started with an RBI and Dan Reed of Wilmington followed later in the inning with a grand slam to bust the game open. Oliveira went 2-for-3 on the day with a pair of RBIs.

Another star of the game was senior pitcher John Higgins. At the plate Higgins went 3-for-4 with a pair of doubles and a pair of runs scored, and on the mound he was very effective, scattering six hits over five innings, while allowing three earned runs to improve his record to 5-1 on the season.

"He performed very well against a very good hitting team," Bloom said. "They were averaging close to a dozen runs per game and he did a very good job of shutting them down."

On Wednesday night the Rams were set to travel to Worcester to take on Worcester Voke in the championship game of the voke tourney. It is the third time in the past four years that the Rams have advanced to the finals, with the only year they missed being the year the tournament was canceled due to rain. In last year's final the Rams lost to Worcester Woke and Bloom knew his team would have to be at their best if they were going to reverse the results this year.

"They are a Division 1 team in Central Mass. and they are a very good team," Bloom said. "We expect to see either their number one or number two starter so we know we will face quality pitching, and they also have four hitters at the top of their league in average."

The Rams will throw their number one starter, senior Jay Sholl of Tewksbury, in Wednesday's game, and Bloom has yet to decide who will start on the hill for the first round of the state tournament on Saturday. Sholl was recently named MVP of the Commonwealth Athletic Conference.

On Tuesday night, Sholl, Higgins and Wilmington resident Kyle Browne all participated in the CAC All-Star game where they took on the Division 2 All-Stars from the MVC. The Ram representatives played key roles in the CAC's 5-3 victory with catcher Browne being named MVP of the game with a double to drive in the go ahead run in the top of seventh. Browne also threw out a runner trying to steal.

Sholl added and RBI in the game while Higgins also had a double, giving the Ram contingent a 3-for-3 night with an RBI and two runs scored.

North Reading resident is Associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court

Honorable Robert J. Cordy

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

For a person who thought he would be a civil engineer while growing up, North Reading resident Robert J. Cordy has made a wide detour to become a Justice on the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

"Being a judge is the ultimate (for someone choosing a career in law)," Justice Cordy said. "It is my responsibility to take time in making decisions on complex problems."

"The opportunity to spend my days trying to grapple (with complex issues) is rewarding."

As a child growing up in Connecticut, Cordy thought he would follow in his father's footsteps and become a civil engineer. As it turns out the only footsteps he followed, that belonged to his father, was to return her to Massachusetts.

"I thought I would be an engineer. I loved math and science," Cordy recalled.

The road that led him to veer off the course was at Dartmouth College, where Cordy became indoctrinated in many other subjects. A person that became one of his mentors introduced him to New York Judge Myles Lane and that started the course to law school.

As a result of this and other conversations with other mentors, Cordy graduated cum laude from Dartmouth with a bachelor's degree in Government. He was accepted to and graduated from Harvard Law School and in 1974 started his career in law as a trial attorney with the Massachusetts Defenders Committee.

"Public service has always been an important part of my life," Cordy said, and law was a good way to serve."

He has had a varied career working with and partnering with some of the top legal firms in Boston. However, he has also served as an associate Attorney General and as a legal council to the Department of Revenue and to Governor William Weld.

Cordy, who has been a Lecturer of Law, teaching courses in Federal Litigation and the Government Lawyer at Harvard Law School, said, "I hope to do more teaching and talk to students and new lawyers about what it means to be in law."

A word of advice he would give to young lawyers is to "...see the practice of law as a license to change the world for the better."

Cordy also asks lawyers to do "...a constructive review on what changes you've made; what contributions you've made..." either to the local community or the world around them.

"The practice of law is so money driven," Cordy said. "I would tell students early on not to miss the larger role they can play in the community."

The role of the courts in our democratic system is also an issue that Cordy has thoughts on. He notes that they have an important role in keeping the balance of government.

"The courts constantly need to restrain themselves from implementing their own feelings," Cordy said.

According to the Justice, many of the laws enacted by the legislature "...are unclear and need to be interpreted by the courts. The courts are constantly looking at how to interpret the law based on legislative intent, where the legislature did not look at certain situations."

Cordy notes, "In some cases the people think the court went too far and some think they do not go far enough."

He reflected on the comments being made recently about the courts acting as a legislative body and enacting new laws through a judicial proceeding instead of a democratic procedure. According to Cordy these are not new arguments.

"They've gone on for hundreds of years," he said, "and they will continue."

Cordy added, "Checks and balances can be a little hard, but that is necessary. I hope, at the end of the day, that lawyers, judges and others make it clear that the courts are a part of the checks and balance system."

According to a history provided by The Supreme Judicial Court (SJC), it was originally called the Superior Court of Judicature, and was established in 1692. It is the oldest appellate court in continuous existence in the Western Hemisphere.

After the adoption of the Massachusetts Constitution in 1780, the name of the Court was changed to the Supreme Judicial Court. The SJC operates under the oldest, still functioning written constitution in the world.

The SJC is the Commonwealth's highest appellate court. The Court consists of a Chief Justice and six SITTING ON THE BENCH The full bench renders approximately 200 written decisions each year; the single justices decide a total of approximately 600 cases annually.

Associate Justices appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Executive Council.

The Justices hold office until the mandatory retirement age of seventy, as do all Massachusetts judges.

Cordy explained that the system of appointing judges instead of electing them was the idea of John Adams, who later became the second president of the United States. He also noted that judges who misbehave in "egregious decisions can be removed."

"I think it (the appointment system) is so fundamental," Cordy, who served as Chairman of the Governor's Judicial Nominating Council, from 1997 to 1999, said. "Massachusetts was very smart right from the beginning"

He added, "The systems that have partisan elections are so fraught with peril. What we look for in judges are different qualities than what we look for in elected representatives."

Cordy's research has shown that judges in states where they must be re-elected regularly need from $5 million to $6 million dollars in campaign funds. That can be a road to corruption in some cases.

The seven Justices hear appeals on a broad range of criminal and civil cases from September through May. Single Justice sessions are held each week throughout the year for certain motions pertaining to cases on trial or on appeal, bail reviews, bar discipline proceedings, petitions for admission to the bar, and a variety of other statutory proceedings. The Associate Justices sit as Single Justices each month on a rotation schedule.

The full bench renders approximately 200 written decisions each year; the single justices decide a total of approximately 600 cases annually.

In addition to its appellate functions, the SJC is responsible for the general superintendence of the judiciary and of the bar, makes or approves rules for the operations of all the courts, and in certain instances, provides advisory opinions, upon request, to the Governor and Legislature on various legal issues.

The SJC also has oversight responsibility in varying degrees, according to statutes, with several affiliated agencies of the judicial branch, including the Board of Bar Overseers, the Board of Bar Examiners, the Clients' Security Board, the Commission on Judicial Conduct, the Massachusetts Legal Assistance Corporation, the Massachusetts Mental Health Legal Advisors' Committee, and Correctional Legal Services, Inc.

Aside from all of these duties, Cordy is a regular participant in a judicial exchange program with colleagues from Russia. He is an annual host to those Russian judicial people that travel to this country.

Movie Reviews

"MADAGASCAR"

by Paul Feely

The latest computer-animated extravaganza from DreamWorks is certainly an improvement over last year's desperate "Shrek 2," but it's not as crisp start-to-finish as the "Shrek" movies. And it falls into the same trap as so many films of this genre (with the notable exception of "The Incredibles"): In an effort to seem hip and high-energy with a litany of pop-culture references, the writing (from a team of four) instead comes off as simple and lazy.

In the span of a 30-minute television show like "The Family Guy," this approach that can be hilariously effective. Over an entire feature film — even one that's just 86 minutes long — it feels like a stretch.

So when Alex (voiced by Ben Stiller), Marty (an exuberant Chris Rock), Melman the hypochondriac giraffe (a perfectly cast David Schwimmer) and Gloria the no-nonsense hippo (Jada Pinkett Smith) leave the safety of the zoo and inadvertently end up on the shores of Madagascar, there are allusions to everything from "American Beauty" and "Chariots of Fire" to "Planet of the Apes" and "The Twilight Zone." One joke even combines riffs on "Cast Away" and "Caddyshack" in the same breath.

Some of the gags in the film from director-writers Eric Darnell ("Antz") and Tom McGrath ("The Ren & Stimpy Show") are admittedly laugh-out-loud funny. Others fall flat. All of them, of course, are intended for the adults in the audience and will sail right over the tiny heads of the kids, who will be captivated by the colorful, hyperactive characters no matter what.

MOVIE:
"STAR WARS EPISODE III: REVENGE OF THE SITH" GRADE: ***

The Force is strong with "Episode III: Revenge of the Sith," the sixth and final piece in George Lucas' galactic saga, which represents a return to the ideas and the spirit that made his original "Star Wars" a hit 28 years ago.

The circle is now complete, and much of the film's joy comes from watching these familiar names and events fall into place.

It is enormously satisfying to see young Anakin Skywalker (Hayden Christensen) teeter along the edge that separates good and evil, and to see what finally pushes the would-be Chosen One over to the dark side of the Force.

It's a wonderful, small discovery when Anakin receives the name Darth Vader once he finally swears his allegiance to Chancellor Palpatine, who reveals himself here as Darth Sidious, a Sith master and the eventual evil Emperor.

But the moment we've all been waiting for is one that simply must be experienced in a packed theater: when the mask goes on and the helmet comes down and Anakin takes his first raspy breath as Darth Vader in all his glory.

The symbolism is powerful to behold, especially when compared to the horrendously disappointing Episodes I and II. In retrospect, the first two "Star Wars" prequels seem even more useless, with their stilted dialogue and their numbing, CGI-infused clone battles.

Lucas wisely has placed the emphasis this time on elaborate lightsaber duels — between Anakin and mentor Obi-Wan Kenobi (Ewan McGregor) against the Sith lord Count Dooku (Christopher Lee), and ultimately between Anakin and Obi-Wan themselves. Some of the biggest thrills come from tiny Yoda, the Jedi master who's at the height of his powers here.

Lucas' writing still leaves something to be desired, though, especially during the exchanges between Anakin and his secret bride, Senator Padme Amidala (Natalie Portman), who announces in Episode III that she's pregnant (with twins we've come to know as Luke and Leia in Episode IV, the original "Star Wars").

His love for Padme, though, is partly the inspiration for Anakin's conversion. Not to give too much away, but he becomes convinced that Padme is in danger, and the only way to save her is through the powers that come with dark-side membership.

He's actually just being manipulated by Palpatine/Darth Sidious, who wants to turn the Galactic Republic into his own Empire and sees him as a malleable apprentice, especially at a time when Anakin isn't getting the respect and authority he craves from the Jedi Council.

It's also a visually stunning film, though. Lucas uses the digital technology to far greater advantage than he did in the first two prequels, which too often had the glossy, detached look of a video game. Crisp daylight streams through the floor-to-ceiling windows of Padme's apartment, and the cityscapes consist of silvery skyscrapers and golden sunsets. Even Chewbacca and his Wookiee buddies look lifelike as they scamper in battle across the beaches and jungles of the planet Kashyyyk.

"KINGDOM OF HEAVEN"
GRADE: **

Director Ridley Scott boldly goes where has had much success before, in a swordfighting, grandiose epic that tells the tale of a man seeking redemption for his family.

He has travelled this cinematic landscape in the past, with much success, with actor Russell Crowe (Gladiator), but this time he thrusts Orlando Bloom (he of Elven fame) as 'Legolas' in the 'Lord of the

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

First ever (Tewksbury)

"It has taken off faster than Janet Jackson's wardrobe malfunction at Super Bowl," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"It has taken off faster than strangers can sip through maggot juice trying to win money on television. And it's taken off faster than Ichiro trying to leg out another infield hit for the Seattle Mariners."

"The it? The game of lacrosse. And it's here in Tewksbury."

"The first ever varsity home boys lacrosse game was played at Wynn Middle School, Tewksbury, fresh off its first ever program contest against Bedford, a 13-3 loss two days earlier, were ready to take on neighboring Tyngsboro, one of the competitive teams in the Merrimack Valley Conference. The boys in red and blue gave the Tigers everything they had, including a very strong third quarter to come back to tie the game up but only to fall, 11-9, when the final whistle was blown by the referees."

"Having the opportunity to compete at such a high level didn't happen as fast as Donald Trump wants to fire someone. It took a lot of patience, a lot of phone calls, scheduling, money, not to mention a lot of meetings, finding interested players, and everything else that goes into starting up a new program."

"We haven't had new programs in a while," said athletic director Bob Aylward. "But this one stems from the popular growth at the youth level. The sport has grown astronomically within the state of Massachusetts."

"While Aylward has watched some of the athletic programs take big lumps over the years from fellow Merrimack Valley Conference teams, he was extremely worried about that happening here."

"In order for us to be recognized as a varsity program in the Merrimack Valley Conference, we wanted to make a point that we get treated by the opposing coaches fairly and to be kind," said Aylward. "We're brand new at this. We're very inexperienced at the varsity level."

"Last year was the official start of lacrosse at TMHS with the boys team playing at a JV level. Today there's a JV and varsity boys program, while there was also a JV girls program which also got underway. There's strong possibilities that next year there will be a varsity girls program."

"Still, in order to find other sub-varsity games, whether it was last year with the boys or this year with the girls wasn't easy just like it wasn't to start the two programs from scratch...."

Hand-me-down (Burlington)

"In its initial review of the proposed 2005-2006 Burlington High School Handbook, the School Committee debated disciplinary codes and heard Principal Linda Hayes discuss action needed due to some questionable activities by students," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"In a letter to the School Committee, Hayes wrote that additions to the handbook 'will address growing concerns from parents, teachers, and administrators about student abuse of prescription drugs, video cell phones, and gambling.'"

"Also, according to the letter, the 'additions will clarify our current discipline policies and provide parents and students with more information...on attendance, hazing and the CORI requirements.'"

"Hayes told the school board there are increasing concerns from the administration and staff about 'prescription drugs and over-the-counter medication.'"

"Video cell phones are becoming a problem," as well as gambling and card playing," Hayes said.

"One new sentence read, 'The discipline code is subject to modification at any time in accordance with the concerns of the Burlington High School Administration.'"

Ladders up in Woburn

"A medical center affiliated with Massachusetts General Hospital that treats patients with autism and other learning and developmental disabilities filed for a special permit for a location in Woburn," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"LADDERS (Learning and Developmental Disabilities Evaluation and Rehabilitation Service) is seeking to occupy 12,325 square feet in a building owned by Cummings Properties at 10 Gill St. in North Woburn."

"Gill Street is located off New Boston Street in the area of the Woburn Industrial Park."

"While the LADDERS facility would require a special permit, Ward 4 Alderman William Booker filed a related petition for the change to the zoning code that would allow medical facilities larger than 5,000 square feet to be located in the city's three industrial zoning categories (Industrial Park, Industrial Park 2, and Industrial General)."

"I haven't seen or heard of any problems with these (medical) types of uses," said Booker.

"He added there are patients and their families who could benefit from this facility by not having to travel to MGH main campus in Boston."

"Anyone who has children knows what it's like to wait in a doctor's office," said Booker. "Why shouldn't we want to make it more convenient...."

Icing on the cake in Wilmington

"If you want evidence that dreams actually do come true, you need look no further than Wilmington's own Chet Ferreira," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The Wilmington High and Curry College graduate played his first professional hockey game as a defenseman for the San Diego Gulls of the East Coast Hockey League, shortly after finishing his season at Curry which included a trip to the Division 3 national tournament."

"Simply getting a shot at playing professional hockey would be enough of a dream come true for a kid who grew up in Charlestown and moved to Wilmington after his sophomore year in high school as Ferreira did, but to make the experience completely surreal, Ferreira also scored a goal in his first game."

"Even Ferreira himself had a hard time believing what was happening at the moment of his big goal."

"I can't even describe it. It was just unreal," Ferreira said. "The fans just went nuts, and I didn't know how to react. I went to the bench and the coaches and players were congratulating me. It was a great feeling."

"Merely playing with the Gulls was quite the accomplishment for Ferreira considering the circumstances that led him to the team. An aunt of his is a friend of the Gulls owner and through her the Gulls had heard of Ferreira through the press clippings of his exploits at Curry where he retired as the all time leading scorer among defensemen with 28 goals and 79 assists for 107 points."

"I talked to them and they asked me to come and practice with them and skate in the preskate before a game, but then after the preskate, they asked me to sign a contract for the rest of the season," Ferreira said. "I ended up playing the last few games of the season with them...."

On ice in Reading

"Juliana Cannarozzo is an amazing teenager who is among the top figure skaters in the Junior Ladies' Division of the United States Figure Skating Association whose goal is to win a medal in the national competition this year, and next year to compete with the best figure skaters in the world, including Michelle Kwan and Sasha Cohen," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"You've probably seen the promotional television ads for the Disney movie 'Ice

Princess,' which opened in Los Angeles, CA in early March. In the movie, which was shown nationally in theaters, Juliana plays the role of Zoe, one of three cocky ice queens who eventually help Michelle Trachtenberg realize her dream of becoming a champion figure skater." When asked what was most exciting about her role in the movie, Reading's phenomenal figure skater says, 'Being selected.' The selection process started with open auditions in Boston in January, '04, and the girl whom family and friends call Jewls, was notified a year ago that she had been chosen for the role of Zoe in 'Ice Princess.'"

"What's it like for a 15-year-old girl to spend so much time skating every day, and how does it affect her life? The girl with dark brown hair pulled back into a pony tail tells us, 'My day starts at 8 a.m. and I skate

"Stoneham School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Connelly again topped the list of the town's top earners this year, raking in an estimated $136,881 in pay, according to documents provided by the Treasurer's Office," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Although an unintended game of phone-tag prevented the Superintendent from being able to comment on the list as of presstime, School Committee Chairwoman Cheryl Walsh - recognizing the criticisms that have been aired for the past two years about Connelly's pay- defended the veteran manager.

"This is a man who brings home work every evening, attends all meetings without being asked, and goes to as many outside events such as athletic awards, drama (presentations), and other extracurricular activities that he can," Walsh remarked.

"His compensation is fair and justified. This is a man who doesn't stop. And he's doing it all for our children," the Chairwoman proudly added.

"Although Connelly's FY05 salary was actually listed as $125,116 for FY05, the school administration's payroll clerk surmised that the Superintendent's salary was probably inflated by a glitch that double counts a pay check.

"Specifically, the payroll employee explained that because Jan. 1 is a holiday - and as such checks can't be issued - the school department has recently begun issuing an extra check in the last week of Dec., which in turn probably throws the payroll figures out of whack.

"However, according to Town Treasurer Thomas Cicatelli, the list actually slightly underestimates the salaries for all other municipal employees because the yearly totals are generated by calendar year, not by fiscal year...."

Boating & You

Things to know before you go

by Tom Lucet

Late spring is usually a great time to enjoy weekend canoeing and other boating activities. For many, canoeing is a splendid way to develop those arms and back muscles.

Dana Smith of Beverly was recently the guest speaker at the Beverly Composite Civil Air Patrol's monthly meeting, where he mentioned ten ways to paddle a canoe safely.

Smith stressed the importance of always wearing a U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket, in addition to mentioning the need to remain sober while boating, as consumption of alcohol while on the water often leads to boating mishaps and accidents.

He also explained the dangers associated with bringing pets aboard you canoe, as they can be injured or contribute to a boating mishap.

To learn more about canoe or kayak safety courses which are offered by the American Canoe Association, call 800-929-5162 or log onto www.uacanet.org.

Fans of larger vessels, from sailboats to power boats and everything in between, consider scraping and re-painting your boat this season.

Many favor wooden boats mainly thanks to their natural beauty, but some make the mistake of using latex paint to save costs, but in the long run, oil-based paint will save you more money and effort, as oil based paint it will endure much better than latex.

When preparing your boat for a fresh coat of paint, be sure to use coarse grit sandpaper to scrape down the area before applying primer.

Interlux boat paint is particularly popular among boat owners, but there are an array of other paint products available on the market at a range of prices.

Looking for a fun place to take a family day trip? Consider hopping aboard one of the excursion boats that depart from Long Wharf in Boston and cruise to the islands of Boston Harbor.

Passengers can disembark on the larger islands for a picnic, a walk along the shore or for an exploration of the scenic islands. Note that historic and cultural activities are offered aboard the excursion boats, so the family is sure to stay entertained.

For additional information on visitation and boat departure times, call 617-223-8666.

The younger members of your family may want to consider setting sail this summer on the waters of Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield, as the Quannapowitt Yacht Club is offering a Youth Sailing Program.

The QYC is especially proud of its Youth Sailing Program, which is intended to help young people develop solid sailing skills, with an emphasis on safety and good sportsmanship.

Youth Sailing sessions are designed for the beginner through the advanced sailor and will be offered throughout the summer in two-week sessions. Several former students have even continued on to take part in Junior Olympic competitions.

Adult sailing lessons will be offered Tuesday evenings from June 7 through July 5. These sessions cover an array of skills including picking-up a boat at its mooring, rigging skills, sailing a prescribed course, docking, de-rigging the boat and returning a boat to its mooring, in addition to the basic rules for safety and etiquette.

LAUGH CLUB STARTING IN WAKEFIELD

The Wakefield Laugh Club will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, June 8th from 7 to 8 pm at the Unitarian Universalist Church, 326 Main St. Led by local resident Sue Herz, a certified Laugh Club Leader, the group will meet on Wednesday evenings on a weekly basis. All are welcome and regular attendance is not required.

The unique concept of Laughter Yoga was discovered in 1995 by Dr. Madan Kataria, a physician in Mumbai, India. It has since grown into a world wide movement with more than 2500 clubs in India, USA, Canada, Australia, UK, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Hungary, Ireland, Netherlands, Finland, Singapore, Indonesia, Malaysia, Vietnam, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Dubai.

Dr. Kataria, realizing that laughter truly can be "the best medicine," started working with a small group of people and discovered that anyone can laugh for 15-20 minutes without depending upon a great sense of humor, jokes or comedy.

What happens at a Laughter Club session?

Led by a qualified laugh club leader, members take part in activities that combine laughter exercises (simulated laughter) and yoga breathing, which turns into real laughter when practiced in a group.

Participation in a laughter club encourages playfulness, laughter, social connection and a balance of mind, body and spirit.

To learn more about Laughter Yoga, see www.laughterforlife.org and www.joyofkidding.com. For Wakefield Laugh Club details, contact Sue Herz at sueherz@rcn.com or 781-246-8940.

QUANNAPOWITT YACHT CLUB OPEN HOUSE

The Quannapowitt Yacht Club (QYC) located in Wakefield at the end of Linda Road (via North Ave.) will host its second open house of the season on Wednesday, June 1 from 6 - 8 p.m. The third open house will be held on Saturday, June 11 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Members will be on hand to answer questions about the Youth Sailing Program, Adult Sailing Lessons, the schedule of racing and social events for the season, and becoming a member of QYC. Guests can also take a tour of the facilities, and information about this historic yacht club will be available. Founded in 1895, QYC is one of, if not the oldest inland yacht club in the country.

You do not need to be a member of QYC to take advantage of the youth or adult sailing lessons. However, there are many benefits to becoming a member, including reduced fees for lessons, a place to moor your boat, year round social activities, and an exciting place to sail all season long in a convenient location.

For more information call 781-245-9652 or www.sailqyc.com.

Sleep problems

Tips for a better night's sleep

Getting a good night's sleep doesn't have to be a pip dream - but for many Americans, it feels like just that.

According to a survey by the National Sleep Foundation, 74 percent of Americans don't get enough sleep each night and most report feeling sleepy or groggy during the daytime.

In addition, 51 percent of adults say they have problems sleeping at least a few nights each week and nearly a third experience trouble on a nightly basis.

Doctors say being sleep-deprived has an array of negative effects on the body, ranging from increased levels of stress to a weakened immune system.

A lack of sleep can take its toll mentally as well, and studies have revealed that sleep-deprived individuals have slower reaction times and more difficulty concentrating compared to those who are well-rested.

So what's the best way to find dreamland? Try these tips from the experts:

- Make sure your bed is comfortable and cozy. From mattress to the pillows, creating the right environment can help to ease you into sleep. Consider splurging on high thread count sheets or an orthopedic pillow.

- Keep the noise level at a minimum. Many people feel that sleeping with the television or radio on helps them get a good night's sleep, but doctors say that the exact opposite may be true. If you need background noise to drift off, try turning on a fan or white noise machine instead of a television or radio.

- Be sure your nighttime routine isn't keeping you awake. For instance, many people use overnight tooth whiteners that aren't well suited for their sensitive teeth. The products can be uncomfortable and interfere with their sleep, so instead, consider a product such as Crest Night Effects Premium. The paint-on whitener is designed specifically for people with sensitive teeth.

"A good night's sleep is one of the best ways to keep your body healthy," explains Jacqui Stafford, style director of Shape magazine.

"Simple things like establishing a pre-bed routine or being certain that your bed is comfortable can make a tremendous difference in the way you look and feel."

Choosing a new, high performance air conditioner

Homeowners who get hot under the collar from high energy bills are paying more attention to the efficiency level of the air conditioners inside their home.

One company, Coleman, has responded to consumer demands with its Echelon series, which features a product family of central air conditioners, heat pumps, and furnaces which feature 12, 13 and 15+ SEER levels.

SEER stands for the appliance's Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio and the higher the SEER level, the better more efficient the item.

The outdoor units also host a variety of consumer-driven features such as hail protection, a rustproof composite pan, low sound and vibration and the exclusive WhisperDrive two-stage compressor - all packed inside a sleek, contemporary titanium-hued cabinet.

Of interest to consumers who like the outdoors, is the fact that Americans have trusted Coleman products for more than 100 years.

Coleman began designing home heating and cooling equipment in the late 1920's. Today, there is a full line of energy-efficient home comfort systems that continue the Coleman tradition of quality and reliability.

This year, Coleman's Heating and Air Conditioning offers the Echelon series. These distinctive new residential heating and cooling products are designed to match consumer brand expectations. In fact, in a survey of more than 150 major national brands, consumers ranked Coleman number one in "high quality" and number three in "leaders in the field."

Studies show that today's homeowners not only shop for heating and air conditioning equipment with contemporary design, but they also want equipment that promises quiet, efficient and environmentally-friendly operation.

To learn more, visit the Coleman company website at www.colemanac.com/consumer.asp

Medication offers hope for alcoholics

There is currently no cure for alcoholism, which affects eight million Americans and accounts for 100,000 deaths each year. But an improved understanding of this disease and the arrival of new treatment options are helping to break down barriers and provide physicians with more effective tools for treatment.

"Alcohol dependence is a serious disorder and it warrants the use of whatever options are reasonable and safe, which in my view, should routinely include medication," explained Henry Kranzler, MD, Professor of Psychiatry at the Connecticut School of Medicine's Alcohol Research Center.

In a report entitled, "Empowering Resources in the Battle Against Alcoholism," Healthy Solutions, a distributor of health care-related television and web content, recently examined the newest FDA-approved drug for the treatment of alcohol dependence.

For the first time in a decade, the FDA has approved a new medication for the treatment of this chronic disease. Campral (acamprosate) is indicated to help patients maintain abstinence from alcohol when combined with behavioral support.

"It's not willpower that is going to get you through this, it is a disease and medication is going to help you," explained recovering alcoholic Jennifer Baker, 39.

She added, "If you combine that with counseling, you have a great combination and a great base to get over that hurdle."

New medications such as Campral, when taken as part of a comprehensive treatment plan that includes psychosocial support, provide patients with various options, allowing them to lead more fulfilling and productive lives.

For more information on alcohol dependence, and alcoholism, go online and visit www.campral.com.

Healthy Solutions segments are featured in streaming video on the show's website for quick and easy access. Simply log onto www.healthysolutions.tv and watch "on demand."

Newsrooms also use Healthy Solutions since each segment is reformatted and distributed via satellite as a Video News Release to over 750 television stations.

Truly a one of a kind house

This week's sampler is "House Beautiful" in North Reading. Built in 2001, this stately 10 room colonial set on an acre with a fabulous water view overlooking Eisenhaure Pond. It is truly a "one of a kind" opportunity for that special home.

Upon entering the grand foyer you are truly amazed by the open space and the design of the home. The special qualities are endless. The large transom windows with molding and details, bridal staircase with oriental runner and second floor open banister bridge to the bedrooms is perfect. The formal living room and dining room are on either side of the foyer for your grandest entertainment. The kitchen was designed with "white painted" cabinets, polished nickel fixtures, granite island, and ceramic tile floor. The high ceiling is full of recessed lightning. There is a lovely "bump out" eat in area for the largest table. Open to the family room with a wall of cherry built-ins for entertainment pieces, gas fireplace, ceiling fan. An atrium door leads you out to a large 3 season room with wood cathedral ceiling and the most beautiful view of the pond. This is paradise for the nature lover.

On the second floor you will find the master bedroom you have always dreamed of. The tray ceiling and gas fireplace grace the bedroom area. There is a sitting room and master bath fit for a king. The Jacuzzi tub, separate shower, and double sinks with vanity area is perfect. The enormous walk in closet is for everything you could think of. The guest bedroom has its own full bath and walk in closet. The other two bedrooms (one with sitting area) have their own vanity area, but share the tub and toilet room. This makes these bedrooms very appealing.

The finished lower level is unbelievable with a large family room, game room with pool table area, workout room, and two unfinished storage rooms.

The rooms have full windows and columns. There is a slider to access the patio area with hot tub overlooking the glistening pond, just perfect to relax and unwind.

This is the first offering on this very special property priced at $959,900. Please call Judy Morrison of Century 21 Spindler and O'Neil at 1-978-664-2100 or 1-781-944-2100 to schedule a private showing.

Avoid bounced check fee

Anyone who has a checking account can bounce a check, but learning more about the different ways in which to deal with the possibility could save bank account holders from paying some pretty costly fees.

If you bounce a check, you may be faced with paying a bank fee and a returned check fee to the party to whom the check was written. Bouncing checks can also hurt your credit standing as well.

The very best way to avoid these unnecessary fees is to keep track of how much money is in your checking account by checking your balance and keeping your check register up-to-date.

Experts at the Federal Reserve Board say it's a smart idea to pay special attention to electronic transactions and automatic bill payments, as these can also affect your bank account balance.

Another way to avoid bounced checks involves linking your checking and savings accounts, so if you do happen to make a mistake, the overdraft is automatically transferred from savings to checkings in order to cover the check. In addition, many banks also offer credit lines specifically for this purpose.

Banks and credit unions typically offer courtesy overdraft protection or "bounce coverage" plans so those checks don't bounce and your ATM and

Do you want to retire on your terms?

What is the key to retiring on your own terms? According to a new survey, saving early is the best thing to do for those who want to retire in style.

In fact, it seems that Americans save more than people in any other country and we also begin preparations earlier than most other regions of the globe.

More than 75 percent of American survey-takers indicated that they are saving money for retirement and 73 percent said they were "prepared."

In addition, nearly 80 percent of those surveyed had a plan in place for where they wanted to live in their retirement years, what they want to do and how much money they'll require.

The survey, called the AXA Retirement Scope, was conducted by AXA, a worldwide leader in financial protection and wealth management, in an effort to get a better grasp on an understanding of global attitudes toward retirement.

One such reality is the age at which people will retire. Working Americans who were surveyed said they would like to retire at age 55, but in reality, they expect to retire at age 63.

Notably, retirement ages varied drastically from country to country.

The survey also revealed that Americans are starting to prepare for their retirement in their 30s. American workers, on average, save $687 per month for retirement. Additionally, more than 50 percent of working adults contribute to an employer-sponsored retirement plan.

Working individuals also said that they are looking forward to retirement, while most retirees said they are enjoying their retirement, and with good reason.

Thirty-seven percent of retired people surveyed said that they spend their time traveling, while 19 percent enjoy a hobby, 18 percent participate in sports and 16 percent volunteer.

In addition, 72 percent of retirees said that their standard of living remained the same or was better than when they were working.

According to most survey respondents, "old age" doesn't start until well after retirement age, as they considered age 75 or older to be "old."

For more information on this survey or retirement strategies and the like, visit www.axaonline.com debit card transactions clear. With these plans, however, bank account holders must pay an overdraft fee or a bounce coverage fee to the bank for each item, which can really add up. But the advantage to this method involves the fact that you can avoid the merchant's returned check fee, while also retaining your good standing. It's also important to remember these points:

- Avoid using these plans as short-term loans - they'll prove to be a costly form of credit.

- If you overdraw your account, deposit money back into your account as soon as possible - enough money to cover both the amount of the overdraft and any bounced check fees.

- Even with these plans in place, there's no guarantee that your bank will cover an overdraft.

- Good account management is the lowest-cost way to protect your hard earned money. If you require overdraft protection every now and then, ask your bank to provide information on the services which they offer.

Maxine Gautier house organizer in No. Reading

On Thursday, June 9 at 7 p.m. Maxine Gautier, founder of "Out From Under Professional Organizing," will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Friends of the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park St., North Reading.

Through a combination of lecture, exercises and group discussion, the presentation will highlight common problems and outline strategies for success. Gautier will explain proven organizing techniques that anyone can put to immediate use in the home or office.

Maxine Gautier has been organizing homes, offices and lives in the Boston area for the past 5 years.

The event is free and open to the public and sponsored by the Friends of the Library. For more information call 978-644-4942.

Handsome Fitzgerald has the right stuff

By Associated Designs

The intriguing Fitzgerald has plenty to catch the eye. Four gables face the front, wooden shutters accent most of the windows, and copper sheathing overscores the garage door and two upper windows. Three arched upper windows echo arched openings on the porch's high edge.

In some respects, this plan bows to tradition. Most of the bedrooms are upstairs, and gathering spaces are well defined. The parlor (or dining room) and living room are separated, and the kitchen is linked, yet slightly removed.

But other parts are totally contemporary. The foyer and living room, for instance, are two stories high, and there's a gas fireplace. Abundant light spills in through transom windows that crown French windows in the parlor and foyer. The kitchen and master suite are also well designed to meet the needs of busy families.

A bayed nook expands the spacious kitchen, which centers around a large work island. One of the nook's windows is actually a French door, which opens onto the rear patio. If desired, this area could be roofed and screened in for pest-free outdoor dining. All appliances are built in, and a desk with shelves nestles into an alcove near the oven and microwave.

An arched opening leads to a roomy pantry, powder room and garage, while a door in the nook provides access to a windowed utility room.

The Fitzgerald's master suite fills the entire right side. It boasts a large walk-in closet, soaking tub, oversize shower, private toilet, and twin lavs. Light beams down onto the closet's secluded window seat through a high window.

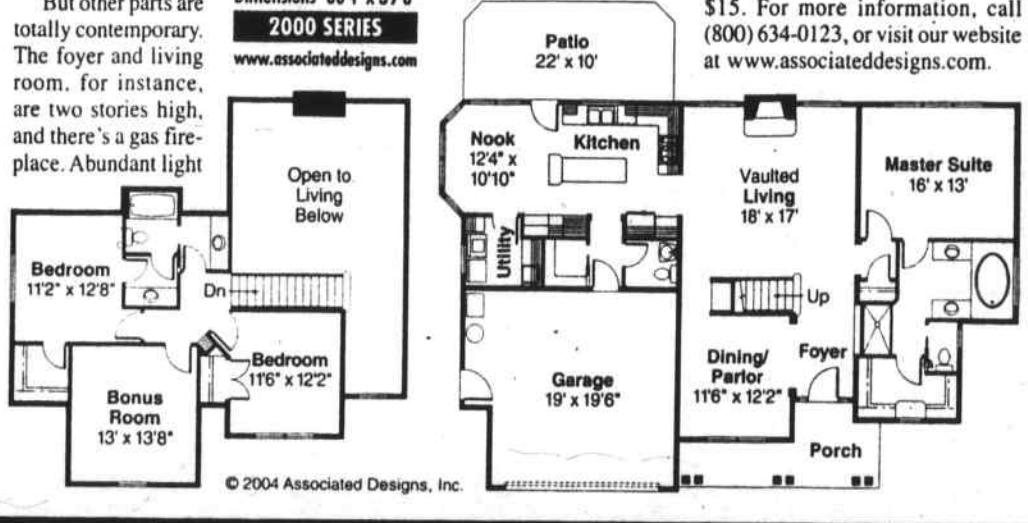

Two more bedrooms, a unique, skylit three-section bathroom, and a bonus room are upstairs.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Fitzgerald 30-492 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 400 home plans is available for $15. AUTHORS IN SPRING LIBRARY SERIES

The Stoneham Public Library will present a Spring Author Series at the library to include Gary Goshgarian who also writes under the name Gary Braver and combines science fiction with a bit of horror, and Richard Marinick who writes about the South Boston mob.

"We are excited about having these authors at our library and we think everyone will enjoy them," note library officials.

Dates and authors are: Richard Marinick author of Boys on June 16 at 7:30 p.m. and Philip Craig author of Vineyard Blues on June 24 at 7 p.m.

THE MOUSETRAP AT STONEHAM THEATRE

Whodunit? Audiences at Stoneham Theatre will be on the edge of their seats when Agatha Christie's classic murder mystery The Mousetrap takes the stage, playing Thursday, June 2 through Sunday, June 19. In the world's longest running play, Christie has created an atmosphere of shuddering suspense and a brilliantly intricate plot where murder links around every corner.

The most famous crime writer of all time, Agatha Christie's gripping mystery "The Mousetrap" has been running nonstop in London for over 50 years, longer than any other play or musical in history. Set in the 1940s, this crime drama centers around a young couple who inherit a roomy old house and decide to turn it into a bed and breakfast.

They don't know their guests, and learn how little they may even know about each other, when the house is isolated by a storm and the phone lines go down. One of the guests is killed and the only possible suspects are in the house. Minute by minute plot twists and turns thrill the audience as they find out who died, who done it and why.

Performances are on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. with matinees Saturdays at 4 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m.

Ticket, priced at $32 for adults, $27 for seniors and $16 for students (under 18 or with valid college ID), are on sale at the Stoneham Theatre Box Office, 395 Main Street Stoneham. online at www.stonehamtheatre.org or by calling 781-279-2200.
